Exhibition to-night.

If a boy or girl makes a funny bow, don't laugh; you might hurt his or her feelings.

The walnut trees have shed all their leaves.

Wonder what girl always talks during roll call.

The girls formed in line for inspection out of doors, Sunday morning.

Miss Role left us Tuesday afternoon, and the very clouds wept copiously.

The Man-on-the-band-stand hopes that the Harrisburg fever is not dangerous.

The girls are now occupying the rooms in the new west wing of the girls' quarters.

Mrs. Campbell took part in the concert given at the Reformed Church, last night.

The re-organization of the base-ball clubs has been due to the arrival of good players from farms.

It was a sorry game on Saturday for the Red Men. The Regulars beat them by a score of thirty to one.

There are a very few vacant seats in the school-rooms at study hour since our country girls have come in.

The tables at the teachers' club were decorated this week by flowers from the garden of our friend Miss Edge, of Downingtown.

Harry Kohpay has returned from Osage Agency, I. T., bringing with him four boys. Among them is Frank Penn, an old pupil.

The Misses Michener of Parkersburg, Chester County visited the school this week. One of the ladies was Miss Nana's teacher in Atlanta a year or so ago.

There must have been a taffy-pull somewhere, from the odor that was wafted on one of the breezes that swept by the band-stand the other evening.

Susan King, Chippewa, was laid away in her last resting place, on Wednesday afternoon. Her casket was prettily decorated with flowers from the hands of her friends.

Mrs. Davison, of the Christian Register, a woman with a very large heart ever ready for good works, a correspondent of several leading papers and one of the most expert stenographic reporters in the country, spent Friday night with us.

The girls extend a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Richard Lippincott, of Rancoas, N. J., for a large number of periodicals sent to their new reading room, and to Miss Sallie Howell, for a beautiful book entitled, "Our Dumb Animals."

Miss Dittes, who has charge of the girls, thinks the patrons with whom the country girls have lived this summer, deserve a word of thanks for the happy, wholesome condition in which they were sent in on Friday. Their clothing and they themselves show marked care and interest on the part of the patrons.

A number of the patrons sent by their Indian farm daughters to friends at the school presents of cake, biscuit, elegant bread and jelly of the girls' own make in several instances, all of which greatly delighted the hearts as well as the "tasters" of those thus kindly remembered.

Shoot the Texas hats.

The maple trees are beginning to turn.

Wonder why there was so much heart in the Praise that was sung at supper the night before picnic! Was every one so happy?

Joe is trying to dry some walnuts for Christmas, but from general appearances he will have to sit on the bag to keep any—the boys are so FOND of walnuts, don't you know.

Mr. Conlyn, of town, called on Wednesday and asked for that printing-office clock which died last week. We are sure from the way he looked at it, he is going to bring it to life again.

John Sanborn has entered the printing office, making our list number fourteen, nine in the morning and five in the afternoon, and we have work enough to keep all busy and learning.

Richard Davis' house at the near farm is receiving its last touch of paint and will soon be ready for occupancy. Richard and Nannie will have a nice little home there. The outlook from the west balcony is beautiful.

Miss Carter's Sunday School class had a good time in her room two evenings playing games and eating apples while she tried to learn their names. She has such a host of wee little boys and girls, this year, and they are as "bright as bright."

The re-organized Junior team stands, Malcolm Clarke Capt. and Pitcher; Johnson Spencer, c.; Robert Big Bear, 1 b.; Samuel Sixkiller, 2 b.; Joseph Gorden, 3 b.; Frank Shively, s. s.; Clarke Gregg, r. f.; Darwin Hays, c. f.; George Suis, l. f.

No man could be more proud of his daughters than the Man-on-the-band-stand was of his girls in the long line that passed in front of the band stand as they came from the station last Friday afternoon, on their return from farms, to attend school here this winter—a whole regiment of as womanly looking girls as one often sees.

We go to press Wednesday evening this week to get ready for the picnic on Thursday (yesterday), but at this writing, Wednesday morning, the weather looks unpropitious. The prospects are, a special train to accommodate the whole 580 of us, to go to that renowned resort for this part of the country—Mr. Alto.

The Secrets Base Ball Club, as re-organized, is composed of the following players: Capt and c. Stailey Norcross; p. Martin Archiquette; 1st b. Jos. Morrison; 2nd b. Jack Wilson; s. s. Philip Lavatta; 3rd b. Alex. Garlow; r. f. Mark W. Shield; c. f. Thomas Kichumi; l. f. David Abraham; substitute, Asbury Clark; umpire, Albert Bishop; manager, Mr. J. B. Wolfe.

The prayer-meeting hour, on both Thursday and Sunday evenings, was filled to overflowing with Bible verses, prayers and good words from both boys and girls. The three delegates to the Y. M. C. A. Convention at Franklin, Pa., have come back to us enthusiastic over the good people met and good words heard. One of the means of education is to mingle with people wiser and better than ourselves.
