My dear Mr. Sells:

The enclosed letter was written to me by a full blood Indian boy whom I became interested in a few years ago and am now sending to the St. Martin's College at Lacey, Washington. I call your special attention to the first paragraph of this letter. It is expressed in about as elegant and clear English as we usually see even from our best educated people. I thought you would be interested in the advancement of this Indian young man or boy, for he is only about eighteen years of age. Please return the letter to me for my files.

Very respectfully,

C. Whipple
Supervisor in Charge.
