My dear Mr. Rutt:

Replying to your letter of September 23rd relative to the securing of an Indian girl student to assist in household duties, none of these girls can be obtained since the abolishment of Carlisle as all the western schools secure employment for their students in the vicinity of their own schools.

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir;

In the days of the Carlisle Indian School quite a number of families have had Indian girls from Carlisle, who assisted in the household duties, and attended the public schools of the district.

As a school executive I know that in most cases the practice was a helpful one both for the girl and the family.

Within the past few days I have had an inquiry for one of these girls. Will you please tell me from what places and under what conditions, they can be gotten now? The home from which the inquiry comes is a good one.

Awaiting your prompt reply, I am

Very sincerely,
A. Reist Puth
