Indians Divided About Removal.

From the Oklahoman.

FORT SILL, Okla., Oct. 16.—The delegation of Apache Indians who accompanied Col. H. L. Scott to New Mexico and Arizona to look for homes for the Apaches on the military reservation here, have returned and made their report, but the tribe is still divided. Half of the delegation favored removal to Mescalero and half advised remaining at Fort Sill. After an all afternoon council today 138 Apaches voted to go to New Mexico and 92 voted to stay.

In the division of opinion it was the older Indians who spoke for a return to the former haunts of the tribe and the younger men who preferred Oklahoma. The delegation was composed of Rogers Toclanny, Talbert Gooday, David Fatty, James Kawaykla, Eugene Chihuahua and Jason N. Betzinez. The first three, all of whom are among those captured with Geronimo in 1886, reported in favor of removal. The last three, all younger Indians, opposed the change. The vote of the whole tribe showed a like division.

One thing was determined by the trip to the southwest country. Before the delegation left some preferred Mescalero, some Warm Springs, some the White Mountain reservation. The return of the delegation determined the fact that all who prefer removal want to go to Mescalero. In that reservation plenty of good land, with plenty of water, was found.

There are 400,000 acres of land to be divided between 400 Mescalero Apaches there now and a possible two hundred who will go from Sill. The other reservations visited were not found to be attractive.

Col. Scott leaves Tuesday to make his report to the war department. Congressional action will be required to settle the fate of the Apaches.

whatever, directly or indirectly, except the satisfaction of feeling that he had done what he regarded as his duty. In private life he was a singularly modest, unselfish, and loyal friend; and he did hard work for the public without any thought of reward, and at a high personal cost in time, labor and money.

Indians Cling to Old Home.

From the Flandseau Review.

Pierre. S. D., Oct. 7.—At the time the Cheyenne River Indian reservation was opened to settlement a triangular strip in the southern part of what is now Zeibach county was not included. This is what is known as the Cherry Creek country, and was the section of the reservation to which the older Indians clung, and which has been slower than any other to accept the ways of civilization. It was left out of the opening two years ago, along with parts of the Cheyenne River and Standing Rock reservation lying along the Missouri river.

Now that it is proposed to open all the remaining reservation in the northern portion of the state the Indians are again asking that the Cherry creek strip be left to them as a permanent reservation.

They are making no protest in regard to the opening of the land fronting on the Missouri river, but want to keep the Cherry Creek, country for all time clear from white settlement.

But the chances are this cherished strip of country will go as will all the other reservation country north of the Cheyenne river, when the next opening is provided.

Medical Division Chief.

Anadarko, Okla., Sept. 27.—Dr. R. L. Russell, for seven years physician at the Kiowa-Comanche Indian agency here, has been promoted to be chief of the medical division at Washington and has left for that city to assume his new duties.
