

Addison Johnson, an ex-student of Carlisle who is working in the State printing office in Harrisburg, hopes to graduate in November. 1909

Addison Johnson, of the State Printery, Harrisburg, paid a visit to his Alma Mater on Saturday last. We were pleased, indeed, to see him and hope he will call in on us frequently.

Simon Johnson and Addison Johnson, ex-students of Carlisle Indian School, were visitors last week. The former is an up-to-date farmer in Bucks county, Pa., and the latter is a printer in the State Printing Department, Harrisburg, Pa. The Cherokees are especially proud to see them looking so well. 1909

Addison Johnson, an ex-student now employed in the state printing office at Harrisburg, visited us last week. He was especially interested in our new printing office and was pleased with the improvements made at the school since he left five years ago.

1161 Addison Johnson, an ex-student, who is employed at the state printing office of Harrisburg, visited the school over Sunday. 250

We were pleased to receive last month a visit from Mr. Addison Johnston, ~~class of 1908~~ and a former apprentice in the print shop. Mr. Johnston is a Cherokee, his home being in North Carolina. He left the school in 1906 to enter the State Printing Department at Harrisburg, which position he has filled most acceptably ever since. He is one of the many students of Carlisle who are "making good" and the school is glad to enroll him among its successful Alumni. We extend our best wishes for his continued success and trust he will visit us whenever the opportunity presents itself. 1909
