L. S. Pierce, who was a student at Carlisle nine years ago, writing from "U. S. S. Pennsylvania, Target Range, 30 miles West San Diego, California," says: "Your 'Injun Arrow' is such an interesting little paper that I must not refuse nor delay renewing my subscription. After I left school I chose the deep sea life, and am still floating around, here, there and everywhere, and I am most surely contented. If anyone at Carlisle wishes to know about some certain part of the world, I shall be glad to write and tell him. I have been educated by having my eyes open every where I went in the world, and I have seen many interesting things."

Kind friend;—

Your pleasing Xmas letter found me sound asleep, but as you who superintends towards uplifting the Indian race has been kind as to write me such couraging letter, I feel as I am not worthy enough to receive such letters, ~~and~~ but I yet yield to you for more inspiring words, as it will be a great help to my future efforts in life to come.

—It seems as you have come to me for assistance and tell you my past struggles and experiences, This I find it hard to do. I have never studied the art of writing biographies practical school. It is the best system to me and for all Indians in the United States. A fine stepping stone to those who enter your school.

It is amazing how the father of Carlisle Institution has worked out and succeeded in establishing one, and so greater one that the whole world even recognize it, and interested in its works. I believe in succeeding, as much as possible on any line of life. And I, greater believe that some day, so excellent will occupy the Presidential chair, in Washington, and rule the Union States, for all ready, we hear some good reports throu' out the Union, who have been a student at Carlisle. The school system is indeed building us up into a higher and nobler manhood and womanhood.

an exam, me be in the darkness. I want no one to follow any of my examples I would a great rather see others do well and make an example for others coming ^{out} of school. I am only a small potato compared to who have graduated and gone out into the heart of opportunities.
I have my efforts in my line of life, ^{or work.} I have my theories and secrets to attend to, I am always quite busy, and I depend no one for support.
I am as independent as I could make it, and I aim to be always.

Now, I leave you in good spirits, and may God is with you in your power, ~~in you~~ As Chief of Carlisle Ind. Reservation, and all leave you with pure minded, strong in their determinations, Your instructions & is Good always,

For some time, for I shall be in delight to see so much improvements made since my existence,

I am all your true friend,

L. S. Pierce.
