INJURED IN HARD GAME

MRS. HENRY ROBERTS

She was Miss Rose De Nomie, a nurse in the Carlisle Indian School Hospital. When Roberts, star end on the Indians' football team, was injured in a game she nursed him back to health and strength, and was wooed and won by him.

Special Dispatch to The North American

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 15.

As the climax to a four months' romance that began when the bridegroom was injured on the football field and was nursed in the Carlisle Indian School Hospital here by the bride, Henry Roberts, 23 years old, of Pawnee, Okla., and Miss Rose DeNomie, 19 years old, of Ashland, Wis., were married here at the home of M. Friedman, superintendent of the school, today.

The wedding was delayed several days until the arrival from the west of Leon DeNomie, the father, a successful lumberman, who desired to see Roberts before giving his final consent.

Henry Roberts was a star end of the champion 1911 Carlisle Indian football team, entering last fall as a commercial student. During the Syracuse game, the only one that the Indians lost during the season, Roberts was seriously injured while vainly trying to save the game for the redskins. Upon being taken to the Carlisle Indian School Hospital, the first thing he remembered upon regaining consciousness was the pretty face of an Indian nurse. He had been her hero on the football gridiron, and through her untiring efforts he soon recovered from the effects of the injuries.

Determining to win her, Roberts assiduously studied for the civil service examination, which he passed with a high average, and received a clerical appointment in the Shoshone Indian School in Wyoming at a salary of $900 a year. He will take his bride there Tuesday.

The pair were the guests of the Indian football team at a wedding banquet here
