Allen L. Andrews, the young man who was picked up on our streets and put in jail for safe keeping, his mind apparently being affected, was claimed by his father a few days ago and removed to his home at Ashfield, Pa. He had been hurt by an auto and, becoming somewhat unbalanced mentally, wandered away from Philadelphia, where he was clerk in a drug store.

Belmont
Robert Doyle, one of the Indian boys from Carlisle, who has been living with John H. Hildebrant for several months, received word the latter part of the week that his mother, living in Montana, was very ill and wanted to see him. Mr. H. at once arranged for him to go home, and accompanied him far enough to see that he took the right train on his long trip westward.

Any general statement or wishes of patron or pupils, together with Agent's estimate of place, people, and pupil:

This is an excellent country home located two miles E. from Belvidere on the Beaver brook.

The order of things about this home go to show that the patrons are careful and progressive. I met Mrs. Nielderbrant and find she is very fond of Robert.

I visited Robert in his school and find he is doing well there. He likes his school and also his country home and seems to take pride in his patrons.

Robert speaks of his time being out next fall and wishes to remain where he is until that time.

It is the wish of the patrons to have him remain as long as he can.
