Death of Former Student.

All Sitka was saddened recently by the news of the death of Thomas Walton, one of our earnest, ambitious young men who was making his way through Whitworth College with a view to spending his life for the betterment of his Thlinget people. The writer has known Thomas the greater part of his life and had great hopes for his future. But one in whose hand are all our ways saw fit to call him up higher. The Thlinget extends sympathy to his relatives.—The Thlinget, Sitka, Alaska.

Dear Sir:- Have just struck the hard rocks of the world. And to solve the problem is better Education.

I left Carlisle, not that I wished to get away but the failure in health was the cause. And as I outline my daily work I find
I am not satisfactorily equipped for it. But I'll always give Carlisle my many thanks for its wonderful help.

As I have thoroughly recovered from my fall in health I am making an other attack on school work. To leave town next.

Yours

Truly Student

9. Tell me anything else of interest connected with your life:

Last fall, well late in the summer after having had a standing job I decided to continue my schooling. I had left the course at Carlisle and had been out of school for five years. But as I met my daily tasks I found that I must continue schooling. So when I had a chance to take up the course I did it. Schooling was for a while very trying for me. After a few weeks of hard work it became much easier. So I formed the study habits again and if I can earn enough to pay for expenses next year I'll continue my study. The past fall was a success.
