Gentlemen:

You delivered a package to this school addressed to Alex Washington containing nuts, the weight of which was said to be Twenty-Six pounds. When it was received here it was apparent that there were so few nuts in the bag, considering the amount of money they paid for them, that Alex took them out and weighed the bag without opening it. It was found to weigh ~~nineteen~~ nineteen pounds. In view of this, I hereby make claim for Alex Washington for seven pounds of pecan nuts at market price. The package has not been opened and will be held for the inspection of your agent.

Sincerely yours,

Superintendent

Dear Sir:-

I have received the two enclosed notices, one for Alex Washington and the other for Sampson Benjamin, for registered letters to be delivered to addressees only. The local postmaster informs me that both these letters are from the Superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes.

As these two boys are pupils of this school and it is desired that all registered letters from the Superintendents to our pupils, come through this office, I will ask that you instruct the Carlisle post office to deliver these letters to the above boys, through my office.

I will appreciate your cooperation.

Very truly yours
