Dear Friend:

While I was perfectly aware what a lapse of good manners it was, to leave Carlisle without seeking you out, just at the time of my leaving, I felt so keenly, the impending separation from my dear son, that it seemed impossible for me to make the rounds demanded by common courtesy. I apologize, however, very sincerely, and take this occasion of thanking you, for the privilege of visiting Carlisle, of placing my son there as a student, and for the kind hospitality shown me while

I enjoyed it so much, and so delighted to find the school so much improved, in every way.

I felt that it was a very great privilege to be able to leave my son there to enjoy all the advantages for development in every line. In return for ^{the} great kindness shown me, I can but use any influence I may possess in assisting the school in securing students, and in assisting any ex-students in any way possible.

I have every assurance that my boy will be well cared for in every way, and that you and all of the instructors will do all in your power for his advancement.

Thanking you once more, and hoping that I may make some small return, I remain

Gratefully yours
Cecilia L. Herman
