VOLUME XIV.

CARLISLE, PA., FEBRUARY 15, 1918.

NUMBER 23

BASKETBALL.

Carlisle, 22—Hampton, 48.

Hampton succeeded, on February 9th, in defeating our boys by the above score in basketball. The game was fast and clean throughout, and while the score does not indicate the relative merits of the two teams, for our boys had hard luck in finding the baskets, yet the victory went to the team having the better team-work.

OUTING REPORTS.

Ella Israel has never been tardy or absent from school since she has been in this home. She has many good friends and is considered one of the most ambitious scholars by her teacher. Her marks for December are as follows: English, excellent; history, very good; science, excellent; Latin, excellent; German, distinguished; spelling, 100 per cent; music, very good. Ella is living with Mrs. A. B. Golze, of Narberth, Pa.

"Amelia Skenandore is a very nice girl," says her country mother. "I like her very much. She is doing good work in school, being exempt from some of her finals on account of very good daily marks."

COOKE—THOMAS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Towle, at Glenside, Pa., was the scene of a pretty home wedding on Saturday afternoon, February 9, 1918, when Miss Louise M. Thomas, one of our Carlisle girls who has made her home with Mrs. Towle for the past five years, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Cooke, of Hogansburg, N. Y. Rev. S. M. Thompson, pastor of the Glenside Methodist church, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a pretty blue charmeuse dress and carried white carnations. She was given in marriage by her country mother, Mrs. Towle.

Louise came to Carlisle some years ago—a little girl. Very early she applied for an outing home where a little girl's services would be needed. She found the outing so agreeable that she spent most of her time in the country. Eight years she lived with one dear country mother, Mrs. Vandergrift at Glenside. Later, when this country mother had passed on after having given Louise much valuable training and Louise's term of enrollment with Carlisle having expired, she continued to make her home in Glenside with other friends.

The wedding guests, numbering about twenty-five, included several of her staunch old Quaker friends who by their presence reminded one of the beautiful friendly Quaker spirit which exists as loyally toward the Indian today as it did back in the days of William Penn.

Louise's wedding invitations were simple little messages written in her own hand. Her friends remembered her with many handsome and serviceable wedding gifts. There were several pieces of silver, cut glass, embroidered pieces of linen, a beautiful down quilt, and some substantial checks.

Mr. Cooke is a millwright by trade and at present is employed in Philadelphia, where the young couple will make their home.

Carlisle joins others in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Cooke sincere congratulations and best wishes for a long, happy, useful married life.

MY TRIP TO HAMPTON.

By Clement Vigil.

While at Hampton we had the pleasure of seeing Henry Lange and Charles Baird. They are both looking well and expect to sail across at almost any time. We also saw four other Indians who are in the service.

There are twenty Indian students at Hampton this year and they are all doing well.

Among the Indian students are three Carlisle ex-students, who are working hard for an education.

Nancy Coleman is taking post-graduate work in teaching. Elizabeth Lieb is taking the academic course. Eli Shawbash is taking a business course.

One of the most interesting things that we saw on our trip was an aviation field, where there are several different kinds of machines which are being tested. We were fortunate in seeing two of the planes make a flight, and had the wind above not been too rough we should have seen some bomb dropping. We were told that just recently a machine dropped six bombs inside of a six-foot square on the ground. We also saw several training camps.

Y. M. C. A.

By Clarence Welch.

The Sunday evening meeting was led by Owen Wooth. Steven Smith read the Scripture lesson, Wilford Waterman read an essay on the Y. M. C. A. work, and a selection was rendered by the boys' octet.

The speaker was Professor Wing, of Dickinson College. His topic was a man who did things for his fellow men. A short meeting was called to discuss things concerning the Y. M. C. A.

Reciprocity.

On February 6th, the girls of the second-year vocational class made croquettes during their domestic science period. Mr. Peel was the recipient of those made by Lucy Greene and Cecelia Hill, and he showed his appreciation by sending to the second-year girls a box of candy.

LETTERS FROM FRANCE.

We are having a nice time here in France, but I thought of dear old Carlisle at Christmas. Our by-word here is, "Have you heard from my Aunt?" All the Carlisle boys are well.—Thomas Slinker, Company D, 28th Infantry, "Somewhere in France."

I am writing to thank you for the fine present from the Red Cross Society of Carlisle. Please thank all the members; also tell them that the articles are very useful. I am tailor for the company and know the value of clothing. I speak of Carlisle as the best school in the United States. I shall never forget the old school and I shall certainly go back to it when I return to America.

Please tell the Red Cross and the Invincible Society that I wish them continued success. I am still an Invincible although far away.

This is New Year's Eve and I am thinking of Carlisle. I should like to hear from the students who remember me. Letters are very welcome to soldiers.—Meredith Crooks, Battery K, 7th Regiment, C. A. Brigade, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Fredrick C. Broker '14, who is with the U.S. Naval Force somewhere overseas, writes in part: "I often think of the old school and the many happy days spent there. If possible I shall certainly return some day to make a visit. Give my best wishes to the school in general and to your class in particular. I am in perfect health, always."

Joseph J. Summer writes as follows: "I am proud I enlisted, and being in the aviation section find life interesting. I only wish I could see the old school once more. We are going across 'over there' in a few days, and I am very anxious to get there. I wish to extend my greetings to all those who have interest and are taking part in the Red Cross Branch at the school. I was certainly glad to get the present."

LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS IN CAMP.

A letter received from Fred B. Blythe states that he is now a real "Sammie," doing his bit for Uncle Sam. He expects to be stationed somewhere in Texas.

A letter received from Gus Lookaround states that he enjoys the Navy. He is soon to play in the championship football game of his ship's league.

In a letter to Mr. Denny, Spencer Patterson, Carlisle 11, informed him that he is a member of Company A, 309th Inf., located at Camp Dix, New Jersey. An accompanying postcard picture shows Spencer looking very well indeed in his soldier uniform.

I am a lonesome soldier boy here in Texas training to bring down some Germans before very long, I hope.

You remember the class prophecy about the airship trip? Well, I am taking real trips daily and thinking of old class '17, as I sail in the air.

I have traveled through many of the states since I joined the army in the East. I am happy and in the best of health. I have gained twenty-five pounds on army diet.

Give my regards to teachers and students and to all who are on the campus.—Hobson Tupper.

A STORY TOLD BY FATHER PHELAN.

By Isabella Lavadore

A Father Superior once told a good monk who did not see the use of sermons that go into one ear and out of the other: "Take these two baskets down to the well, fill one and bring it back." When the monk got back to the monastery the basket was empty. His Superior commanded him to do this on three successive mornings. Always the monk met with the same adventure. Finally the Superior asked him: "Do you see any difference between the two baskets?" "Yes, one is cleaner than the other," replied the monk.

So it is with the sermons; they seemingly go through one ear and out of the other, but some parts of them do stick and our souls are made cleaner thereby.

THE CARPENTER SHOP.

By Charles Cadotte.

The carpenter force now consists of thirty-seven boys. They are divided into two classes, vocational and pre-vocational. The vocational boys are under the instruction of Mr. Herr and Mr. Gardner, and the pre-vocational boys are under Mr. Wetzel.

The work of the pre-vocational boys is general repairing on the campus, and the work of the vocational boys is to make things in the shop, such as tables, chairs, and book-cases. At present the boys in the vocational class are making two tables, two arm-chairs, and a settee, which will be sent to Washington.

Each day the boys are given lectures for forty minutes by Mr. Herr.

A Farewell Party.

Last Wednesday evening a farewell party was given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall by Messrs. Alfred Wells, Owen Woothakewabitty, and Cecil Ahtooowosserahke in honor of Mr. Norton Tahquechi, a member of their tribe, the Commanche, who was leaving for the Navy. The guests were: Mr. Blair, Mr. Duran, Mr. and Mrs. Heagy, Mrs. Foster, Miss Donaldson, Miss Dunagan, Miss Wilson, Miss Robertson, Alex Wakeman, Edna McDonaldson, Mary Hill, Eleanor Houk, Louise Tahquechi, Vera Attahvich, and Nettie Standingbear. A very pleasant time was spent in playing games. A beautiful solo, "Just Be Glad," was sung by Miss Dunagan, and a trio, "Keep the Home Fires Burning" was sung by Miss Dunagan, Nettie Standingbear, and Norton Tahquechi. Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, ice cream, cake, and coffee, were served by Misses Hill and Hauk and Messrs. Wells and Wooth. Mr. Duran, Mr. Heagy, Miss Donaldson, and Norton Tahquechi each gave a touching talk.

Appreciation.

Agnes Daybird received a letter from Mr. V. C. Thomas, of Philadelphia Navy Yard, in which he says:

"Just a line to let you know that I received your gift, a good warm sweater. It will come in very handy. I am grateful and I thank you very much."

SUSAN LONGSTRETH LITERARY SOCIETY.

By Evelyn Metoxen, Secretary.

The meeting of February the 8th was called promptly to order by the president, Euservia Vargas. At roll call members of the vocational classes responded with quotations from Edgar Allen Poe; pre-vocationals, with maxims and proverbs.

Ruby Barnes was initiated into the society. The usual order of business followed. The reporter, Clara Shunion, gave very interesting notes.

The program was as follows:

Society Song—Members.

Biographical Sketch of Poe—Agnes Little John.

Piano Solo: "Moon Winks"—Eulalie Garrow.

Reading: "A Soldiers Dream"—Lucy Ashland.

Piano Solo: "Oh, What Joy!"—Judy Kanard.

Recitation: "The Builders"—Ada Powlas.

Vocal Solo: "Where the Four Leaf Clover Grows."—Ida Rose Clark.

Indian Legend: "The Great Bear"—Ruby Barnes

Piano Solo: "Angel's Prayer"—Clara Buffalo.

Recitation: "Conservation Calendar"—Mary Hill.

Selection: "My Little Grey Home in the West"—By the Susan Octet.

Debate.

Resolved, That the world is growing better.

Affirmative—Hattie Feather and Isabelle Jordan;

Negative—Elizabeth Doxtator and Beulah George.

The judges were Francis Ojibway, chairman, Mary Hill and Lucy Ashland, associates. Their decision was in favor of the negative.

The official visitors were Mr. Snyder and Mr. Denny. Other visitors were Charles Walker and Francis Ojibway, all of whom made most excellent talks.

The meeting then adjourned.

MERCER LITERARY SOCIETY

By Eleanor Houk.

The house was called to order by the president. Roll was called and each member present responded with a quotation. After the transaction of business the reporter gave her notes and the following program was rendered:

Society Song—Mercers.

Essay: "Opportunity"—Lucy Lenoir.

Selection: "Chain of Daisies"—Mercer Orchestra.

Oration: "Character"—Grace Maybe.

Piano Solo—Winifred Printup.

Recitation: "The American Flag"—Isabelle Redcloud.

Declamation: "When Silence is Golden"—Amelia Swallow

Vocal Solo: "Weary"—Vera Green.

Pen Pictures—Margaret Levering.

Piano Solo—Mamie Green.

Talks: "What I learned in Chemistry"—Christine Cutler, Mary Rorke, and Lucy Smith.

Impromptu—Delia B. Cheau.

Poem Selection—Clara Wakefield.

Star Spangled Banner—Audience.

The society voted on which speaker gave the best talk on "Chemistry" and Mary Rorke received the majority.

The visitors for the evening were Mrs. Kirk and a brother Standard, Mr. Tibbetts, who gave us some helpful remarks. The critic gave her report and the house adjourned.

Y. P. B. U. Meeting.

The election of officers for the Y. P. B. U. resulted in the following: President, Daniel Madrano; vice-president, Alex Washington; secretary, Martha Straws; corresponding secretary, Owen Wooth; treasurer, Morgan French.

After election the following subject was discussed: "The winning of souls for Christ." Daniel Webster, Alex Washington, Anita Davis, and Edward Waterman responded with helpful remarks.

INVINCIBLE DEBATING SOCIETY.

By Rupert Anderson.

At our February 8th meeting the house was called to order by the president and as usual, a few verses were read from the bible.

Clarence Welch led us in the society song and then the roll was called.

David Smith, Andrew Thompson, John Wolfe, and Joe Hickman, were presented for membership and David Davis signed the constitution.

The committee on questions presented three questions, from which the following was adopted:

Resolved, That the Indian should relinquish all property which he does not use.

The program was as follows:

Declamation—Burnell Patterson.

Oration—Benjamin Caswell.

Essay—Rufus Tims.

Select Reading—Sampson Blythe.

Saxophone Solo—Alex Wakeman.

Extemporaneous Speeches—Gordan Dubray, Joe Hayes.

Recitation—Raymond Wheelock.

A member being absent, Frank Verigan gave a voluntary recitation in his place.

Debate

Affirmative, Wilbur Anderson and Wallace Murray.

Negative, Frank McGillis and George Pease.

George Pease being absent, Thomas Miles volunteered.

The visitors for the evening were: Mrs. Wheelock and daughter Isabelle, Mrs. E. Eversman, Mrs. F. Craney, Master Arthur Craney of Philadelphia, Miss Cornelius and Mr. Duran. Mrs. Wheelock expressed her enjoyment of our program in behalf of herself and party. Miss Cornelius and Mr. Duran both made inspiring remarks.

The judges decided in favor of the negative.

The absentees were called, the critic made his report, and the house adjourned.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

Miss Hill, an employee at Carlisle for many years, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Denny over the week-end.

The juniors find the study of physics almost as interesting as chemistry, but they miss the laboratory work.

The concert Saturday evening was very much enjoyed, especially the singing by the chorus and the Glee Club.

The Junior Class as a whole are suffering from a new epidemic known as "Physicness," an ailment of the brain.

Robert Harris has been very busy storing away food for the coming famine, which he predicts will come to pass in June.

Mr. Shambaugh inspected the girls' Quarters Sunday morning. He remarked that everything was in apple-pie order.

The Company A girls regret to see their captain, Emily Moran, leave them. She is to take training in the school hospital.

The shoveling of snow for the trolley company ended up with the even division having the ride from Mechanicsburg to Carlisle.

After spending his vacation near Harrisburg, Mr. Wilson returned to the farm last week. The dairy boys were glad to see him.

The boys who work in Quarters were highly complemented by the inspecting committee on the appearance of the building.

From his appearance on the stage Saturday evening, Clarence Welch looked as though he were doing his bit on a southern plantation.

Mr. Bradley said that Andrew Cuellar's speech on "Citizenship" was one of the best given at the Hampton celebration of Dawes day.

In a recent letter from Eva Jones we learn that she is more than holding her own in daily average and in examinations, her mark on the test in surgery being 98 per cent. This, in competition with college bred girls.

The farm boys are preparing to bid on hogs on 15th of this month. Each boy is to make out his own bid, which must be handed to Mr. Giffen before the date thereof. This will give a fine advantage to those who are inexperienced in bidding.

Monday, Mr. Blair talked to the junior girls on his trip to Hampton. He said that Hampton is a beautiful place. Only one thing connected with the trip that he did not like was Carlisle's defeat in basketball, but he said it was a good, square game.

Mr. Blair, Mr. Bradley, and Andrew Cueallar accompanied the basketball team to Hampton Institute. Andrew was one of the speakers at the "Dawes Day" celebration, which was held at Hampton last Saturday evening. His subject was "Citizenship."

Loretta Bourassa, a Carlisle ex-student who is now at her home in Shawnee, Okla., writes that she is keeping house for her mother, who is ill. She hopes to make Carlisle a visit in the near future.

George Pease told the blacksmith boys of his trip to Washington, D. C. On his way to the Indian Office he got lost, but he said he wouldn't admit it when he walked up to the wrong department.

Henry Lange and Charles Baird, ex-students of Carlisle now stationed at Camp Hill, Virginia, were two interested spectators at the Carlisle-Hampton game, which was played at Hampton Institute on the 9th.

The juniors are proud of their brave classmate, Eleanor Houk, who separated the dogs that were fighting in the students' dining hall. They are of the opinion that Eleanor should be awarded a Carnegie medal.
