AN INDIAN STORY.

Once there was a little Indian boy who was so fond of hunting that he asked his grandmother if he could take his bow and arrows and go hunting. But his grandmother said, "No, my son, we are going to move this evening for the game is getting scarce", but the boy insisted on going hunting. So she finally said, "My son, if you go you must be back before the sun goes down or we will leave you". He promised he would. When he reached the woods he forgot what his grandmother had told him and stayed over time.

When he went back there was not a tent to be seen; the little fellow began to cry for his parents; he made up his mind to follow them, so he started on his journey.

He had gone about a mile when he found a cane of willow; this he took with him. He had gone another mile when to his surprise he saw a piece of new rope; this he pulled until at last he found a beautiful black horse.

The horse said, "What are you crying for my son?" He said, "My parents have gone away and left me." The horse said, "Get on my back and I will take you home. But promise me that you will not tell who brought you this." He promised. The youth reached his home in the evening, but he was not to speak to anyone until the next day.

He had grown to be a handsome boy; his parents were glad to see him and everybody cried for joy. The next day he ran a race on the same horse that brought him home. While the race was going on the horse broke one of his legs and they both turned into solid rock.

Good Advice for Indians.

On Sunday Jacob Riis, a man of national reputation and who Mr. Roosevelt said was the most useful citizen in New York, in company with a special carload of Eastern people, visited Sherman and addressed the student body while at supper. In the course of his remarks he said: "You would die for your flag I am sure; but what is far more important, I am sure too, you would also live for that flag. Lead upright, clean lives. Never do anything for which you must apologize. Be soldiers in your discipline, unswerving in your loyalty, courageous in the fight for honesty and fair play, and you will be citizens of which the country may well be proud." His remarks were loudly applauded by pupils and teachers.—The Sherman Bulletin, Sherman Institute, Cali.

Presbyterian Sociable.

On Tuesday evening of last week all of the Indian boys and girls attending the First and Second Presbyterian church, were invited by Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bedford to the parlors of the Second church. As it was the last social gathering before many of the students left for the country, the company was a large one, and all had a delightful time.

The fine phonograph selections played by Mr. Richards were much enjoyed, and some living pictures posed by a number of the pupils were very successful. Perhaps the most popular was the final group, which showed Florence Garlow and Harry Wheeler, dressed as waiters, carrying plates of ice cream and cake which they, assisted by several others, served to all the company.

Afterwards some Indian hymns, sung by a group of Nez Percés, were appreciated. Dr. Norcross was unable to be present, but Mr. Hagerty made a few remarks at the close of the evening, addressed especially to those who were about to leave for the country, assuring them of the interest the people of the Carlisle churches would continue to take in their welfare.

After a closing hymn the good-byes were said, all thanking Mr. and Mrs. Bedford for an evening of good cheer and fellowship.

ABOUT POISON IVY.

ALFRED DE GRASS, Mashpee.

Poison ivy belongs to what is called the Rhus family of plants. When it grows in an upright position it is called poison oak. Poison ivy is found in most every locality—in the woods, along the road sides, in the swamps and in the meadows. The most common place it is found is growing on stone walls. The leaves are oval and pointed at the top. They are from four to six inches long and from three to five inches wide. The edges are sometimes notched, but are mostly found with plain edges. The upper side of the leaves has a lustrous color and the under side has a downy covering. The young leaves have a lustrous brownish color and are always found in groups of three.

The flowers are of a greenish yellow and grow in drooping clusters. The berries grow in small clusters like grapes. In late summer they are a light brown color and later on they change to white. Although ivy is poison the juice is extracted and used as medicine. When one is poisoned by ivy mix two teaspoons of pure carbolic acid, two tablespoons of glycerin and one-half pint of water, or rose water, and bathe the affected parts. Or rub the affected parts well with grindelia.

In a letter recently received from Miss Mary E. Disette, Paquate, N. M., she says: "The Pueblo Indians of the Laguna tribe have signed by an overwhelming majority, a petition in support of a local option law, thus signifying their intention of keeping saloons off the reservation. There is a law in this Territory against selling liquor to an Indian, and if these Indian officers heavily fine every man found drunk, and compel him to tell where he got his liquor, the saloons on the edge of the reservation will soon be obliged to go out of business."—The Indians Friend.

ABOUT CARLISLE ATHLETICS.

In the great American Marathon race at Boston last Monday Lewis Tewanima seemed to lack his old-time form and after leading the bunch of 182 runners for about 16 miles, he was bothered by cramps and dizziness and had to slow down. He came in twelfth, which was doing fairly well considering the fact that all the crack amateur distance men in the country competed in the race, which was won by Henri Renaud, a "dark horse."

The relay team won a one mile race at Pittsburgh last Saturday night from teams representing Univ. of Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, and Carnegie Technical School. Dupuis was Carlisle's first runner and gained a good lead which was increased in each relay by Friday, Twohearts and Moore.

On Wednesday next the annual class contest will be held. The special medals for winners of 1st, 2nd and 3rd places will be much better than have been awarded in former years. The date comes a few days earlier than usual, on account of the second country party going out on Thursday and Friday.

The relay team and several men for the special events will compete in the relay carnival at Philadelphia tomorrow. Carlisle is in a fast class and the relay boys will have to extend themselves if they land the gold watches and the banner.

John Corn won the five mile race at Pittsburgh from a fast field in fairly good time and is developing into a fine distance runner. He should make a great record in the mile and two mile events the coming season.

BASE BALL GAMES.

On Wednesday last the Mercersburg Academy team defeated the local team in a closely played game. Considering the wet, sloppy condition of the field and the cold drizzling rain which fell after the third inning, the game was very well played. Tarbell started in to pitch the game but was driven from the box in the second inning after Mercersburg had hit him safely five times which, together with two bases on balls, netted five runs. W. Garlow then took his place on the mound and held the visitors down to one run during the balance of the game and striking out twelve of his opponents. Newashe's hitting and fielding was a feature.

On Saturday the Indians with their band and a number of rooters journeyed to Harrisburg to show the Tri-State Leaguers a few stunts in the baseball line and they certainly did for if there hadn't been a fence around the grounds some of the thrown balls would probably be going yet.

They started right off in the first inning by making four beautiful long distance heaves which gave the leaguers three runs without anything that looked like a hit. Garlow pitched a magnificent game and had everything on the calendar. Had he been properly supported he would have shut out his opponents and in the face of such support pitched on as if it didn't bother him. Pete Hauser also played a good game at first.

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

The present Junior class has begun the study of Civil Government. They find it very interesting.

In order to give time for the flag salute the supper hour has been made half an hour later.

The Junior 'Varsity base-ball team won two games from the "Local Fans" last Saturday afternoon.

A very enjoyable evening was spent in the gymnasium last Wednesday, April 14, at the annual band banquet.

Sunday evening after supper Mr. Miller took a party of girls out walking. We all enjoyed it. Many thanks to Mr. Miller.

The Junior 'Varsity team won a double header from the Local Fans Saturday. The J. V. boys proved to be very good hitters.

The band base-ball team defeated the "Local Fans" team last Friday, 8-3. Thompson's pitching was the feature of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Friedman took the girls to the first farm Sunday afternoon after service. All who went enjoyed the walk very much.

The second team will play with the Shippensburg Normal base-ball team here next Saturday. They also play with Massanutten Academy on Friday.

The Invincible Society held its meeting last Friday evening. There was an election of new officers. Peter Hauser was elected president for the coming term.

Last Saturday the band went to Harrisburg with the base-ball team. Although the team was defeated, the band played from the start of the game to the last minute.

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

Sunday the Y. W. C. A. girls had the pleasure of attending the Y. W. C. A. meeting in town.

Irene Brown is kept busy nowadays teaching in room 4½. She is well liked by her pupils.

As the weather was so hot Monday the electric fans in the laundry were put to use for the first time.

The painters are beautifying the exterior of the gray buildings by applying the same shade of color.

Speech making in chapel on Mondays is something new for the Freshmen, but we will endeavor to do our best.

Some of the girls attended the Presbyterian church in town Sunday afternoon. Miss Cowdry was their chaperon.

The plumbers have completed their work at the first farm and have returned to the shop after a two weeks' outing.

Rose Hood, Amelia Wheelock and Mabel Logan, were entertained in town last Saturday. Among other amusements they made taffy candy.

The old hospital, now used as the Athletic Quarters, is undergoing repairs on the interior. The occupants were obliged to move into Large Boys' Quarters.

Spring has come at last, and with it the usual "spring fever" prevails. But the majority of us are trying to overcome the fever and are doing our usual duty.

The Presbyterian girls had the privilege of attending the evening service in town in which Rev. Norcross gave his farewell sermon to the congregation.

Last Sunday the girls went to the auditorium without their hats and coats as it was very warm, and the pretty tulips were in bloom on the school grounds.

Dr. Norcross, the retired minister of the Second Presbyterian Church in Carlisle, delivered an interesting and helpful sermon to the student body Sunday afternoon.

The mandolin club gave some pretty selections for Miss Reel and her friends in the auditorium last Thursday evening. The music was very much enjoyed.

Sunday was a beautiful day. Everybody enjoyed being out in the sunshine. Several parties went for a walk, and some were seen lying in the shade on the fresh green grass.

Last Thursday morning sixty-eight girls went to the country for the summer. The same day twenty girls, who have been in the country for some time, returned to the school.

The band troop has organized a baseball team and are ready to play any other team on the grounds. Troops A and B have some good ball players and we expect to hear from them soon.

Mr. Egolf, the school dairyman, has the cows and stable in fine condition. The poultry boys who are working for him are doing well. There are about six hundred little chickens now.

The seniors are reading Scotts' novel entitled Kenilworth. This production is about the best of his historic novels. It deals with Queen Elizabeth's reign and is interesting from start to finish.

The class of '12 has a chance to redeem itself at the coming class contest. Last year we lost to the seniors by a close score. The prospects for the champion banner is good for the coming event.

Cecelia Baronovitch, who spent two weeks at Plymouth visiting friends, returned Saturday. Cecelia expects to leave for her home in Alaska Tuesday. She will be greatly missed by her many friends.

Miss J. Senseney, formerly our music teacher, but who is now one of the music teachers at Wilson College, Chambersburg, visited the school Monday afternoon. She chaperoned about twenty of the College girls.

Our relay team left here early Saturday morning and enjoyed a pleasant trip to Pittsburg under the care of Mr. Crispin. After having returned one of the members of the team declared that they all did extraordinarily fine.

The students are well satisfied with the change that has been made in the study-hour period. It now begins at seven-thirty instead of at seven o'clock. This gives the boys more time for baseball, and the girls more time for long walks.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. had an ice cream and candy sale at the school reception Saturday evening. The object of it was to raise money to send a large delegation to Mt. Lake Park conference, which will begin the latter part of June.

The Mercer Literary Society held its regular meeting at the usual hour last Friday evening. Although a great many members have gone to the country, others have come in and the attendance was as large as usual. Miss Johnston was among the visitors and gave us some very helpful advice.

Mr. Martz, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Carlisle, led the union meeting last Sunday evening. It was a very interesting talk that he gave us and all who heard him enjoyed it very much. He spoke briefly on obedience and how to trust God.

Mr. McConihe, an inspector, Miss Reel, Superintendent of Indian Schools, Mr. Holcombe and his daughter, were distinguished guests of the school for a few days last week. They were entertained at the Teachers' Club and by Superintendent and Mrs. Friedman.

The Standards initiated their newly elected officers last Friday evening. As there was no regular program for the evening, the members voted to have a volunteer program, which proved to be a success. All the different parts of the program were quickly filled.

The Susan Longstreth Literary Society met at the usual hour Friday evening in the society room. The new president, Sarah Hoxie, presided. The attendance was large, mostly visitors. Among them were Miss Reichel and Mrs. Kenton, of New York, who gave us an interesting talk on society work. A volunteer program was then rendered as follows: Song, society; declamation, Dora Snyder; essay, Jeanette Harris; piano solo, Fanny Keokuk; Debate, Resolved, "That money has more influence over mankind than education." The affirmativespeakers were Salina Twoguns and Elizabeth Keshena; Negative, Clara Spottedhorse and Majorie Jackson. The judges decided in favor of the affirmatives. After the Critic's report the house adjourned.

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

(News items from last week.)

Ella Johnson, who came in from the country recently, has joined the sophomore class.

Lawrence Deerday, who went to the country with the first party, paid us a visit Sunday.

The masons are building new cement sidewalks in front of the new employees' cottage.

Charles Fish, who went to the country last winter has returned and rejoined the class, 1911.

Helen Pickard, who has been out in the country for several years, wishes to be remembered to her friends.

James Henry, who has been in the hospital sometime for treatment, is going home soon on account of poor health.

The Senior ARROW, which was issued last week, was a very fine piece of work and all of the students are saving it.

The new Freshmen class find their new teachers very pleasant and willing to help. Lets help the teachers by studying hard.

A letter was received from David Solomon, stating that he was still going to school and enjoying his stay in the country.

Patrick Verney, who went home shortly after his graduation, writes to his friends that he is enjoying the pleasant weather in Alaska.

The girls in the dress-making class are now ready to make some more dresses for the girls going out in the country in the second party.

Mr. Weber, our school's expert general mechanic, helped us out this week. We broke a casting on our cylinder press and he set the new one.

Lizzie Hayes, who went home last summer, writes to a friend that she is getting along nicely at home, but often wishes she was back at dear old Carlisle.

A very pretty and costly sofa pillow was won by Louise Kenney in a contest among the Catholic girls. The questions were taken from different parts of the bible. We congratulate our little Senior for her good work.

A daughter has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nori. She became a member of the family April tenth.

Michael Chabitnoy, one of the printing apprentices, left last week for Hershey, Pa., where he will spend the summer under our outing system.

Mamie Mt. Pleasant, who has been in the country for a few weeks on account of ill health, has returned to the school. We are glad to see her looking so much better.

Sadie M. Ingalls, who is attending school at Oak Lane, near Philadelphia, is getting along well with her studies. She expects to come in the first part of May.

The painting department has a piece of finishing that shows what the boys of that department are capable of. It is a mission desk and it certainly is an artistic piece of work.

Elmira Jerome, Helen Lane, Marie Lewis and Elizabeth Webster have taken up the shorthand and type-writing course. We wish to hear of their doing well with this kind of work.

Emma Webster and Lillian Miller, both Carlisle young ladies, are now employed at Lac du Flambeau, Wisconsin, under Supt. Sickles. They say that they are doing nicely and are contented.

Mr. Kraus, our baker, is an artist in plaster casting as well as in bread making. He brought to THE ARROW office a specimen of his handicraft. It is an Indian's head in relief on a plaster plaque.

Since Mr. Taylor's departure all the students of the upper four grades go to the Business Department. Formerly, some of each of these grades took agriculture and some took business.

A number of cards have been received from girls who went to the country and have reached their destinations. They all like their new places and hope to get a great deal of benefit from this new experience.

The manual training department under Mr. Herr has turned out some mission sanitary desks recently that are splendid examples of fine workmanship. Other things, such as book shelves, magazine racks, cases, closets, etc., have been made for different departments of the school. Mr. Herr has some good workmen among the boys.

People passing through the industrial departments comment upon the transformation made during the past year. Carlisle is now splendidly equipped to give thorough training in all the most important industrial trades.

Frank Lonestar, Victor Skye, Raymond Hitchcock and Jack Jackson, all of THE ARROW force, went out to the country with the first party of boys last week. We miss them in the shop, but hope they will be benefited by the change.

The Nez Perces are organizing a company to establish an Indian bank at Lapwai, Idaho, with Corbett Lawyer, class '95, as cashier. All the other members of the board of directors will also be Indians. This is the first institution of its kind in the Pacific Northwest.

Patrick Verney, a graduate from Carlisle's printing department this year, left for his home, Metlakatla, Alaska, last week. Patrick is a good printer and a splendid young man; there is no doubt about his "making good." His intention is to put in a print shop of his own and form a partnership with his father, who is a prominent Alaskan curio dealer at Metlakatla.

William Ettawageshik was the happy winner of the beautiful gold medal given to the boy whose paper was the best in the annual test given by the Sisters. Attendance and conduct are also considered in the contest. Joseph Animikwan held second place. Among the contestants the following had excellent papers: John Farr 98, Michael McCann 98, Peter Jordon 97, Alphonso McKay 97, Joseph Tarbell 96, Alexander Arcasa 96, Francis Bacon 95, Jefferson Miguel 95, Wm. Martell 95, Jas. Welsh 95, Edward Blackwood 95, James Casey 95, Charles McDonald 94, Joseph Picard 93. The girls' prize was a very handsome hand cushion which was awarded to Louise Kenny for Bible Study. Papers deserving mention were those of Elmira Jerome, Inez Brown, Margaret Delorimere, Adeline Boutang, Josephine Gates and Cecelia Baronovitch.
