THE AMERICAN INDIAN ASSOCIATION.

The First National Conference of the American Indian Association will be held on October 12-15, 1911, in Columbus, Ohio, on the campus of the Ohio State University.

The organization of this Association is largely the result of the efforts of Prof. F. A. McKenzie of the Ohio State University, who has carried on a correspondence with a considerable number of Indians, covering a period of nearly two years, with that end in view. Through his efforts, a few Indians met in Columbus, Ohio, on the 3rd and 4th of last April, for the purpose of organization. A temporary executive committee was formed consisting of Charles E. Dagenett, Chairman; Laura Cornelius, Secretary; Charles Eastman, Carlos Montezuma, Thomas L. Sloan, and Henry Standing Bear. It was decided that the Temporary Executive Committee should be enlarged in order to be more truly representative, and that a general committee should also be established consisting of representatives as far as possible of every tribe or considerable body of Indians in the country. Sub-committees on Program, Finance, Publicity, and Local Affairs were also appointed. The committees were fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Rosa B. La Flesche for the position of permanent secretary, her experience and knowledge especially fitting her for that position.

A very cordial invitation was received by the committee to make Columbus the meeting place of the convention. This invitation was signed by the leading citizens of that city, including the president of the Ohio State University, the mayor of the city, the president of the Ministerial Association, the secretary of the Y. M. C. A., the secretary of the State Historical and Archaeological Society, and the president of the Columbus Federation of Labor.

The Temporary Executive Committee held its second meeting June 20 and 21, at the home of Mrs. Laura M. Cornelius, Seymour, Wis. At this meeting the committee formulated a circular letter to be mailed to every progressive Indian whose name and address could be procured, inviting them to become members of the Association. A pamphlet was also formulated which gives all the necessary and detailed information from the time the Association was first conceived.

OBJECTS OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The new Association proposes, among other things, to bring together all progressive Indians and friends of Indian progress for the purpose of promoting the highest interest of the Indian as a race and as an individual. It asserts that any condition of living, habit of thought, or racial characteristic that unfits the Indian for modern environment is detrimental and conducive only of individual and racial incompetence.

While the Association and its founders most sincerely appreciate the splendid elements and achievements of the old-time Indian culture and the methods by which early conditions were met, it realizes most keenly the inefficacy of these methods in meeting the conditions of modern times. It asserts that the life hope of the Indian of America depends upon the ability of the Indian to meet enlightened races upon an equal footing in all walks of life.

It asserts the right of an Indian to an active voice in the rights and destiny of his race, and will ever seek to defend all rights and just claims of the race. One of its high aims is to see the development of conditions whereby the Indian as an individual and as a race may take his place as a man among men, as an active member of the great commonwealth, and independent of all support not accorded to any body of people who have achieved a position equal to the most enlightened.

It believes that the development of individual ability and the stimulation of high ideals is far better than the impressing of every man into a preconceived type. It therefore believes that Indian progress depends upon awakening the abilities of every individual Indian, the realization of individual responsibility for self and race, and the duty of responding to the call of activity.

MEMBERSHIP.

Active membership in the Association is open to all progressive Indians. All non-Indians interested in its principles are invited to become Associate Members. The fee for both Active and Associate Membership has been fixed at $2.00. Voluntary contributions of larger amounts are expected from those who can afford to do more. None but persons of Indian blood are eligible for active membership.

An interesting program has been gotten up for the October Conference, which includes an address of welcome by Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of Ohio State University, and papers on industrial, educational, legal, political, moral and religious problems.

Carlisle is in thorough sympathy with the movement, its aims, ideals and personnel, and the Association has our best wishes for prosperity and success.

Pamphlets and additional information may be had by addressing American Indian Association, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

Our Opening Exercises.

At our opening exercises, Mr. Whitwell mentioned the few changes in the calendar and then gave a short address to the teachers and students in which he spoke encouragingly of the bright outlook to carry on successfully the work during the year. Louisa Kachicum, a senior, gave a fine recitation entitled "A Tattered Tongue," and Benedict Cloud gave an essay, "Choosing a Career."

THE INDIAN AND TRAVELING SHOWS.

The avowed intention of the American Indian Association to throw the weight of its influence against the luring away and employment of reservation Indians by Wild West Shows and circuses, is encouraging and should have the approval of right-thinking men. While there may be difficulties in the way of effecting such a reform by any governmental regulations, it is certainly to the best interests of the Indians themselves to get them to see the utter uselessness and folly of sending their young people, both boys and girls, out under such influences.

It may not be so much the morale of their associates in the shows, which exerts a bad influence—although there are many of these shows which are demoralizing—as the persons and influences which the Indians are thrown with in their travels. The action of the Carlisle School in abolishing an extensive baseball schedule because of the iniquities of summer professionalism is along the same line.

The boys squandered all their earnings as they were received, got into bad company, became demoralized and ruined for regular work. While a few made striking successes, the majority became dissipated and unfitted for productive employment.

So with the shows. The Indian youth is engulfed in viciousness and vice. Many are stranded far from home and friends, and many an application comes to the authorities of this school to aid such individuals. Others are continually appealing to charitable organizations for assistance. The practice should be discouraged and abolished. Former Indian Commissioner Morgan stated the case clearly and emphatically in one of his reports, when he said:

“The influence of these shows is antagonistic to that of the schools. The schools elevate, the shows degrade. The schools teach industry and thrift, the shows encourage idleness and waste. The schools inculcate morality, the shows lead almost inevitably to vice.”

Let the American Indian Association and other agencies, together with the authorities in Indian Schools, tell the Indian of the dangers which lurk in the practice of Indian youth wasting their days in such activities. Help these young people to see that it is their part to settle down to some kind of productive industry which will lead to larger happiness and greater contentment, and to turn away permanently from the activities which though exciting are short-lived and harmful.

Indian a Musical Artist.

The following appeared in a Bethlehem paper:

“One of the latest acquisitions to the personnel of the musical steel workers is a full blooded Mission Tribe Indian, who bears the musical name of E. B. Sousa, and who, in agreement with his distinctive appellation, plays the E-b bass, and is an accomplished performer on the Sousaphone or B-b bass.”

“Mr. Sousa is, as his tribal distinction tells, from Lower California. His rudimentary education was received at the Indian School at Phoenix, Arizona. He later became a student at the Indian School at Carlisle. His ability as a musician is such that for several years he has been connected with bands. He is a horseshoer by trade and is employed at his calling at David Nickel’s smithy, on Broadway. Mr. Sousa will leave in September for Carlisle Indian School.”

Eloy Sousa has been at Bethlehem under the outing system gaining experience at his trade. He returns to Carlisle to master more of the fine points of his trade.—Editor.

Good Advice.

There are ten things for which no one has ever been sorry—these are:

- For doing good to all.
- For being patient towards every one.
- For hearing before judging.
- For thinking before speaking.
- For holding an angry tongue.
- For being kind to the distressed.
- For asking pardon for all wrongs.
- For speaking evil of none.
- For stopping the ears to a tale bearer.
- For disbelieving most of the ill reports.

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

The boys at the first farm are cutting corn and filling the silo for the winter supply.

There were several visitors at the Senior Class meeting; we are always glad to welcome them.

Miss Reichel chaperoned a party of girls on a walk about the city of Carlisle last Sunday evening.

Mrs. Sadie Richey spent her vacation resting at Carlisle and in a pleasant visit to her son at Fairview, Pa.

Inez Brown paid a short visit to her country home in Chambersburg last Friday and Saturday; she returned just in time for the reception Saturday evening.

The Freshmen held their meeting on schedule time. The president being absent, some of the members told of their country homes and summer experiences.

Many girls and boys have arrived, and are arriving daily, from different parts of the United States to enroll as students. We extend to them the glad hand of welcome.

The Sunday School classes have organized and the work promises to be carried forward with the same earnestness and zeal which were manifested during the past year.

On their way to Michigan Mr. and Mrs. Whitwell stopped and renewed old acquaintance with Miss Fannie G. Paull who was formerly a Carlisle teacher now engaged in Y. W. C. A. work. Mrs. Whitwell says they made the 1200 miles to and from Jackson “without a puncture.” Was it due to the careful chauffeur or the good roads? We’ll have to ask Mr. Whitwell.

Joseph Wilbur Purkins, a graduate of Bates College, was a visitor at the school Wednesday. Mr. Bates, who is walking from Maine to California for a wager of five thousand dollars, expects to reach San Francisco by July 4, 1912. The conditions under which he is making the trip are, that he must at all times carry as much as thirty pounds in his suit case, must not cross any streams by ferryboat unless the nearest bridge is more than five miles away, must accept no money except for value received, and must reach San Francisco by July 4, 1912.

VACATION NEWS NOTES.

Mr. Wyatt spent his vacation resting at his home on the eastern shore of Maryland.

Dr. Jos. A. Murphy, Health Inspector, paid us an official visit of two days' duration in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith and Miss Violet Smith visited friends in Hummelston and Halifax, Pa., this summer.

Many of the boys have been detailed to the first and second farms to assist with the heavy work incidental to this time of the year.

After spending the summer under the Outing, the boys and girls returned last week looking well and happy and ready for another year of work.

Mr. Radcliffe, formerly assistant to the Quartermaster, resigned during the summer to accept a position in the National Museum at Washington, D. C.

Miss Yoos sojourned for awhile this summer at Orwin in the mountains of Pennsylvania. She says there is plenty of fruit in that section of the state.

Miss James and Miss Zeamer both spent their summer vacations quietly at home, with occasional trips to Harrisburg, Mt. Holly, Boiling Springs, and other nearby resorts.

Sampson Burd, captain of the football team, has returned to the school bringing with him several students of the Blackfoot tribe of Montana. He looks to be in splendid condition.

James Mumblehead, '11, now of New Cumberland, Pa., was a visitor over Saturday and Sunday. James is the leader of the New Cumberland Band and is highly respected by his associates.

Football practice started last Saturday afternoon and the boys responded gallantly by getting out in large numbers. Carlisle bids fair to have a team capable of upholding her high standard in athletics.

Mr. E. C. Witzleben, principal of the Standing Rock Indian School, North Dakota, visited the school this week. He brought with him ten Sioux from the Standing Rock Agency to be enrolled as students at Carlisle.

Mr. Kensler spent several days in New York during July and August. He was detailed there by the Washington Office to inspect goods at the warehouse and select samples for supplies for the next school year.

We learn with regret of the resignation of Miss Dora Lecrone, one of our most efficient teachers. Miss Lecrone made many friends while here and will be missed both by her former pupils and the employees of the school.

Mr. John Charles, Supervisor of Construction, visited the school officially in July. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Friedman while here. His visit was in connection with the reconstruction of the steam-heating plant of the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollo Brown left Carlisle about the middle of July for Missouri, where they will hereafter reside. Mr. Brown has been at the head of our business department for several months, but resigned to take a position in Missouri.

Mr. Veith, our florist, spent a very pleasant vacation in Washington, Baltimore, and College Park, Md. He brought his mother, whose home is in Baltimore, back with him for a visit. Mrs. Veith's father was also a guest during the summer.

Dr. Elmer Hess of Philadelphia, a graduate of the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania, was appointed July 1 to fill the vacancy in our hospital staff made by the resignation of Dr. DeFoney. Dr. and Mrs. Hess will be a pleasant addition to our ranks. We bid them welcome.

Mr. Joseph P. Seibeneicher, one of our farmers, realizing that "it is not good for man to dwell alone," brought back a bride with him when he returned from his summer vacation. They are happily located at the first farm, where they are keeping house. We wish them good luck and happiness.

A very cheerful letter comes from Mamie Rose who with a few other Carlisle boys and girls is staying at Mt. Alto, Pa. She says, "It is very nice up here and we are having pleasant times with the friends we have met. We hardly have time to get lonesome. I have joined the Bible Class and am a member of the Sunday School."

Mr. and Mrs. John Runclose, nee Martha Wettenhall, ex-students of Carlisle, who were married at the school last April, spent the month of May at the former's home in South Dakota. They were out in the open most of the time, walking and riding, and had a delightful time. They have now settled down to house-keeping and are enjoying that experience also. John is working well at his trade of printer and expects soon to open a printing office of his own in a new town near his home. They are both well and happy and anxious for news from "Old Carlisle." Their address is Presho, S. D.

 Saturday Evening Social.

Saturday evening Sept. 2, occurred the first indoor "social" of the year, and it proved to be a very enjoyable affair. The students looked very nice—the girls in their pretty evening dresses and the boys in their neat suits. The occasion was especially enjoyed by the Outing students who had just come back from their country homes. Some of them had not had the pleasure of dancing in the "gym" for several years, and it is needless to say they made the most of their opportunity. Refreshments were on sale for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. of the school.

 Marriage of Two Students.

Margaretta G. Reed and Lewis L. George, Carlisle students, were married on Wednesday morning, August 30, at St. Patrick's Church, Carlisle, Pa., by the Rev. Father Stock. The ceremony was witnessed by a large audience of schoolmates and friends. The bride was attired in blue silk and wore a wreath of orange blossoms. The two bridesmaids, Miss Marie Beauvais and Miss Nora McFarland, were attired in white and wore white veils. The groom was attended by Mr. John Farr and Mr. James W. Mumblehead. During the ceremony Miss Margaret Sweeny and Miss Alice Guest of the Carlisle school rendered some fine vocal music. After the ceremony a reception was given by Superintendent and Mrs. Friedman for the bridal party and their friends, after which amid a shower of rice and good wishes, the bride and groom departed for their future home in California.

CARLISLE STUDENTS AT Y. W. C. A. CONFERENCE.

The East Central Student Conference of the Young Women's Christian Associations was held from August 21 to September 1, 1911, at Denison University, Granville, Ohio. Between 250 and 300 delegates were present from academies, colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio. The Carlisle Indian School was represented by Misses Susie Porterfield, Jane Butler, Anna Hauser, Thirza Bernell, Jeanette Pappin, chaperoned by Miss Edith Rinker, Secretary of the Carlisle school's Association. Miss Louise Brooks, a member of the National Board of Y. W. C. A. of the United States managed the Conference.

Denison is situated in the Ohio hills about six miles from Newark, and while the buildings and grounds are beautiful, the most attractive thing about the place is the view from the hills, where one can see the country for many miles. Some of our girls roomed at the top of one of these hills, in Marsh Hall; but in spite of the lovely scenery that position had its disadvantages, for they had to swim down to breakfast each morning, as the rain poured steadily for the first week.

The purpose of the Conference was Bible and Mission Study, under the supervision of most efficient instructors. Classes in these studies were held in the mornings, the girls being allowed a choice of helpful subjects along both lines.

The afternoons were devoted to recreation, with the exception of a quiet hour intended for study or other personal use. Miss Anna Hauser was the Carlisle member on the recreation committee, and helped to plan the fun. One afternoon was devoted to "College Day", on which occasion each delegation had an opportunity to do a "stunt" representative of its own college. Carlisle did an Indian dance, and Miss Jeanette Pappin sang an Indian song, after which they sang together "Alma Mater". The Denison basketball team challenged a team picked from the other colleges represented to play a game of basketball. Miss Jane Butler played on the Conference team and scored nine points, thereby placing the victory in the hands of the Conference team. In the evenings, general conference was held, at which very fine speakers addressed the meetings.

This Conference was a great help and inspiration to the girls. Not only are those who conducted the classes and the work in general expert and well-informed instructors, but consecrated Christian men and women, who are whole-heartedly interested in young women. All the delegates had an opportunity to talk personally with these leaders and become acquainted with them. Everywhere was the atmosphere of helpfulness and blessing. Girls are accustomed to talking after their return from this conference about the Granville spirit, but let them rather speak of it as the spirit of Jesus Christ.

MR. WHITWELL AUTOS TO MICHIGAN.

George P. Donehoo, D.D., in the June number of "The Red Man," speaking of the Indian council held at Carlisle in the fall of 1753, says:

"The council closed on October 4th, and the Red Men returned to Ohio. The course followed by these warriors as they went westward was no doubt the same as that which the traders followed from Carlisle to Shannopin's Town (now Pittsburg). The trail passed through  Raystown (Bedford), Loyalhanning (Ligonier), to Shannopin's Town (Pittsburg). The stet has followed the course of this historic pathway of the Red Man across the Kittatinny, Allegheny, Laurel and Chestnut ridges—on foot, just as the Red Man walked it centuries ago. And what a beautiful trip it is! Small wonder that the Red Men who loved those picturesque ridges of mountains and beautiful winding streams in every valley fought to keep such a glorious possession."

Such are the feelings of one, who, with his wife and family, recently journeyed by auto over this route to Michigan. Not even the auto detracted from the enchantment, but (for good reasons) seemed to pause in its usual rapid flight to drink in the grandeur of the scenery.

The scenery between Bedford and Ligonier simply beggars description. At one point, near Stoyestown, a thin white streak penetrates the forest for ten miles ahead and ascends one mountain after another, until it finally appears to shoot into the sky. This is in reality part of the road through these beautiful and historic mountains.

But the view from the summit! Well, for good reasons, I will not attempt to do it justice. After a life of travel I will simply say I have not seen its equal. Let me add—if your home is anywhere near these mountains—you are wasting time and money if you go abroad to see beautiful scenery.

The remaining part of the trip, which included a boat-ride from Cleveland to Detroit, a five days' visit in the latter place, eleven days of motoring in Michigan, a return trip along the shores of Lake Erie to Cleveland, and back to the mountains by Pittsburg,—all these had their charms; but the journey over the mountains,—steep as it is,—rough as it is (even to the extent of seeming defiance),—possesses charms and leaves an impression greater than all the rest.

"Small wonder that the Red Men, who loved those picturesque ridges of mountains and the beautiful winding streams in every valley, fought to keep such a glorious possession."

Indian Y. W. C. A. Delegates.

What was the meaning of all those "Good-byes," "Write to me" and "Send me a postal" that we heard on the campus on Monday night about eight o'clock? That was our Y. W. C. A. delegates departing for the ten days' Summer Conference held at Granville, Ohio. The following girls were chaperoned by Miss Edith Rinker, the Y. W. C. A. secretary: Lillian Porterfield, Janette Papin, Anna Hauser, Susie Porter, Thirza Bernell and Jane Butler. We know these girls will bring back an inspiration from the Conference that will have a lasting influence on their own lives and also a telling effect on our Y. W. C. A. here at Carlisle.

Miss Helen Eloise Pickard, a student of Carlisle, who has been living at Moorestown, N. J., under the school's Outing system and attending school there, recently graduated from the Moorestown High School. She had the distinction of being the valedictorian of her class at the Commencement exercises, having attained the highest average in her studies. Her essay was entitled "Our Sphere of Responsibility," and it was full of noble and lofty sentiment and high ideals. There was also read at the Class night exercises an excellent poem by Miss Pickard entitled "The Mount of Life." We congratulate her on her success, and hope she will continue to be successful in all she undertakes in the future.

Indians in The World in Boston.

The following letter was received by Superintendent Friedman concerning the work of the Carlisle students in connection with "The World in Boston."

The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York.

June 7, 1911.

Mr. M. Friedman, Carlisle Indian School.

My dear Mr. Friedman:— This letter is to say on behalf of the Trustees that we thank heartily the Carlisle students who rendered such valuable service throughout the month that the Exposition was open. Will you be good enough to convey this vote of thanks to them, and to say that we feel that we have been greatly helped by their presence and service.

Sincerely yours,

A. M. GARDNER,

General Secretary.

Fred P. Haggard, D.D.,

Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Mr. and Mrs. Conser, their infant and several friends were motoring near Riverside, when in crossing a railroad track a train struck their car. Mrs. Conser, realizing a collision was inevitable, threw her child into the bushes at the side of the road, and the child was uninjured save for a few scratches. Mr. and Mrs. Conser were badly, but not seriously injured. Mr. Conser was for many years chief clerk of the Indian Bureau, Washington, D. C. The many friends of the Consers throughout the service hope that they may have a rapid and complete recovery. Mr. Conser is a valuable employee of the government.

The band held its first rehearsal Monday morning and judging from the harmonious strains emanating from the hall, it must have been an unusually good one considering the new members who are entered at this time of the year.

A new student remarks: "Upon coming to Carlisle I was much impressed by the manner in which the old students received the new ones; they were so kind and thoughtful that it is almost impossible to feel lonesome or homesick."

Our regular Sunday afternoon Service was greatly enjoyed; the theme upon which the Rev. C. L. Sones discoursed was "The Persevering Character of Daniel." He brought out many new thoughts which may be applied to our daily lives.

The Juniors elected the following Class officers for the coming term: President, Abram Colanhaski; vice-president, Mary Harris; secretary, Anna Hauser; treasurer, John Goslin; reporter, Sylvia Moon; critic, Montreville Yuda; sergeant-at-arms, Sylvester Long.

The four upper grades held their first class meetings on the evening of the fourth. The time was spent in electing officers and in relating summer experiences, some of which were somewhat out of the common and very interesting according to the places visited, such as the sea shore and other resorts.

Sylvester Long, Cherokee, had charge of the mechanical division of the printing department during Mr. Miller's absence this summer. He is only a two-year apprentice, but is trustworthy and reliable, and his willingness to work hard and faithful has its reward in a larger knowledge of his trade than is usually gleaned during this period.

The Sophomores met in their room on the evening of the fourth and elected the following officers: President, Lida Wheelock; vice-president, Fred Broker; secretary, Lillian Simons; treasurer, Rose Lyons; editor and reporter, Helen Johnson; critic, Alex Arcasa. A few of the members were called upon to tell of their summer outing after which the class adjourned.

Mrs. J. A. Buntin, wife of the superintendent of the Indian School at Shawnee, Okla., recently visited Carlisle. She was accompanied by 17 members of the Potawatomi tribe of Indians, who have been enrolled as students of Carlisle school. Mrs. Buntin says the trip was made in remarkably quick time and with no accidents, and that the conduct of the party was admirable.

Frances Coleman, a Chippewa Indian, and Cora Elm, an Oneida, both students of Carlisle, were married this summer. Francis, who is a graduate of the department of telegraphy of the school, has been for some time employed as telegraph operator by the Cumb. Valley R. R. at the "QN" tower just outside of Carlisle, and has made good in his chosen profession. They were both bright and satisfactory students and reflected credit on the school. They are keeping house in Carlisle.

"THE SOUL OF THE INDIAN."

There was a book issued in February of this year (1911) by Houghton-Mifflin Company, Boston and New York, entitled, "The Soul of the Indian." It was written by Dr. Chas. A. Eastman, a Sioux Indian.

As related to the low price at which property was received from the Indian, he says, page 103: "The true Indian sets no price upon either his property or his labor. His generosity is only limited by his strength and ability. He regards it as an honor to be selected for a difficult or dangerous service, and would think it a shame to ask for any reward, saying, rather: 'Let him whom I serve express his thanks according to his own bringing up and his sense of honor.'"

On page 108 he says: "Wanton cruelties and the more barbarous customs of war were greatly intensified with the coming of the white man, who brought with him fiery liquor and deadly weapons, aroused the Indian's worst passions, provoking in him revenge and cupidity, and even offered bounties for the scalps of innocent men, women and children."

On page 110 he says: "A willful murder was a rare occurrence before the days of whiskey and drunken rows, for we were not a violent or a quarrelsome people."

This book is very interesting all through. It gives the inside of the Indian. Allow me to make one other quotation. On pages 19-20 he says about the so-called Christian religion: "There was undoubtedly much in primitive Christianity to appeal to this man (the Indian), and Jesus' hard sayings to the rich and about the rich would have been entirely comprehensible to him. Yet the religion that is preached in our churches and practiced by our congregations, with its element of display and self-aggrandizement, its active proselytism, and its open contempt of all religions but its own, was for a long time extremely repellent. To his simple mind, the professionalism of the pulpit, the paid exhorter, the moneyed church, was an unspiritual and unedifying thing, and it was not until his spirit was broken and his moral and physical constitution undermined by trade, conquest and strong drink that Christian missionaries obtained a real hold upon him." —The New Era, Lancaster, Pa.

Mr. E. K. Miller spent his vacation with Supt. Sickles at the Lac du Flambeau School in Wisconsin. Mrs. Miller, Richard, and Edgar Jr. have been occasional guests at dinner in the teachers' club where Edgar Jr. insists it is more healthful to begin rather than end his dinner with ice cream.

The Fourth was celebrated in a "safe and sane" manner at the school this year. The usual fireworks exhibit having been omitted from the day's program, the students went to town that evening where they witnessed an excellent display of novel fireworks on the Dickinson athletic field.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Henderson have returned from a very restful happy vacation spent among the mountains of North Carolina, Mr. Henderson's home. While in that section they met Mr. and Mrs. Carter, former Carlisle employees, and Mr. Henderson made a trip to the Cherokee Indian School. He reports that David Bird, one of our ex-students, is making use of all his knowledge gained at Carlisle, especially the knowledge gained under the outing system, and has one of the finest crops of corn on the reservation.

Selina Twoguns, '10, an employee of the Indian School at Greenville, Calif., writes that she had the pleasure of visiting San Francisco during her vacation. She was greatly impressed by the bustling, cosmopolitan city, and also by the beauty and grandeur of the Pacific. While there she met Mr. Ramsey, our former business teacher, who is located there and doing splendidly.

We had as a visitor this summer, Miss Bessie Cummins, who holds a responsible position in the Indian Office at Washington, D. C. Miss Cummins was formerly a teacher at Carlisle, and has a good many friends and acquaintances at the school who were glad to have her back with them for awhile. She brought with her two friends, Mrs. Anna Conway, a teacher in the public schools of Washington, D. C., and Miss Atkinson of the same place.

Small Boys' Outing.

During the month of July Mr. Denny took the Small Boys on a four days' camping expedition into the mountains north of Carlisle. They selected for their camp-site a picturesque spot near Gibson's Rock in Perry County. The boys had a fine time berrying, fishing, catching frogs and swimming in Shermandale Creek. After supper every evening they sang songs until it was time to go to sleep. They took rations enough for a week, but they developed such healthy appetites that at the end of four days they were reduced to the necessity of coming home or eating each other. They delighted the cooking world by inventing a new biscuit which they call "squaw bread." It is needless to say that most of the boys gained in weight, and they are all anxious to repeat the experience next summer.
