FINE HERD OF COWS AT CARLISLE.

Additions to the Stock of the Dairy Barn— Dairy Industry at Carlisle Improved.

Ten fine-bred cows have been added to the school dairy herd during the past week. Seven of them are high-bred Holstein cows, which were obtained from New York State, and three of them are well-bred Holstein-Friesian cows purchased from Pennsylvania. They are especially recommended for the quantity and quality of milk which they produce. This school now has a very fine herd of cows with a No. 1 registered bull.

With the model dairy barn which was built several years ago and which is a model in every respect and one of the best in this part of the State, the dairy industry is well provided for. At the same time the students have an excellent opportunity of learning this branch of agriculture and of obtaining thorough training and practice in handling milk and butter and in the care of stock.

INEFFICIENCY IN GOVERNMENT EMPLOY.

Secretary Garrison has just received a delegation of arsenal workmen to protest against the burdens of the so-called efficiency system of shop management. Several Representatives accompanied the delegation, and supported their argument against being overworked and oppressed in the manner which presumably is as severe in the arsenals as in other Government occupations. Notoriously the conditions of Government employment are such that it is difficult to get the Government's work done.

Secretary Garrison made no reply on his own account, but he handed the delegation a copy of Gen. Crozier's report to the Ordnance Bureau of the working of the system, and asked the delegation to return if they wished to do so after studying what the General had to say about getting more work with less effort, and for the same wage. The Secretary's action in this case is almost as cruel as his advice to the cadets who wished relief from punishment for their faults. He advised them to take their medicine like men, rather than appeal like whining boys. In substance, his advice to the arsenal delegation is that they should earn the wages which they receive, and which are envied by many unable to get equally desirable employment. The Secretary's replies will not commend him to those who receive them. He must look for compensation to the regard of those for whom he acts.—Editorial, New York Times.

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

(Crowded over from last week.)

The carpenter boys are being taught stair-building.

The electricians are wiring the large boys' bath house.

Lena Bennett has recently been promoted to the shirt-making class.

Some of the boys are taking advanced work with the Indian clubs.

The old students are glad to see so many new boys and girls arrive each day.

The plumbers are covering the steam pipes under the Administration Building.

Marjorie Jamerson, Lillian Walker, and Thresa Lay have been promoted to the dressmaking class.

The board fence that was recently built on the east side of the Campus is now being whitewashed.

A noticeable change, which is also a great improvement, has been made in the orchestra. The director, Mr. Stauffer, is now playing the violin and Marguerite Chilson is playing the piano in Mr. Stauffer's place.

COMPENSATION AND AN INDIAN MURDER.

Will Stanley, superintendent of an Indian school in California, in the direct performance of his duty, was shot and killed by Indians. Under existing law his widow and two young children receive no compensation from the Government, and a special measure must pass both Houses and be signed by the President in order that common justice may be done.

The supervisor who reported the murder to the authorities at Washington recommended that a pension be given to Mrs. Stanley just as pensions are given to the widows of army and navy officers killed in line of duty. Such a provision was, as a matter of fact, included by the Senate in the Indian appropriation bill, but it was stricken out before passage on the wholly tenable theory that it did not belong in a supply measure. Accordingly, a special bill, dealing with this case alone, was introduced into the Senate. When it came up objection to its consideration by unanimous consent was made by Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, who asked:

"What responsibility has the Government for the killing of this man?"

To this Senator Works of California replied:

"He was in the regular performance of his duty and he was shot down while he was performing his duty. If that does not give rise to a case where the Government ought to recognize the claim of his widow and children, I do not know how you can find one where it would be just and proper."

The objection, however, was insisted upon, and the bill was delayed. It was believed that it will not be reached in the regular order of business before the December session of Congress. The incident shows the need for a thorough-going compensation act for Federal employees.—Survey, New York.

ATHLETIC NOTES.

University of Pittsburgh, 12—Carlisle, 6.

Our football team suffered its first defeat of the season at the hands of the University of Pittsburgh team at the latter place last Saturday. The Pittsburgh team played an unusually strong game, and the teams were evenly matched. The Indians scored in the second period on a succession of fine plunges and runs outside of the opponents' tackles after a very stubborn defense by the Pittsburgh players. In the third period Pittsburgh worked a long forward pass to the Indians' 8-yard line, and failing to gain by rushing they executed another forward pass which resulted in a touchdown and tying the score, both teams failing to convert their touchdowns into goals.

After the score was tied the Indians worked the ball near Pittsburgh's goal twice and tried two goals from the field which failed, and the game looked to be a tie game within three minutes of the end, when Pittsburgh kicked the ball from about their 30-yard line. The kick was low and striking the ground took an ugly bounce off to the side. Carlisle's safety man in chasing it, and attempting to pick it up, booted it farther down the field, pulling the Pittsburgh players onside, one of them finally falling upon it on the Indians' 5-yard line. Here the Carlisle team put up a very strong defense in spite of the discouraging occurrence, and in four plays Pittsburgh was just able to get the ball to Carlisle's goal line, scoring the touchdown which won the game.

To-morrow the Indians play Pennsylvania on Franklin Field and a delegation of students, accompanied by the band, will see the game. This is Carlisle's most important game and the boys will try hard to wipe out last year's defeat, although realizing that Old Penn has a much stronger team than last year when Carlisle's misplays gave the Quakers the victory.

The Reserves play Bloomsbury Normal School at Bloomsbury to-morrow and the Junior Varsity team play the Allison Hill Tigers, of Harrisburg, on our field.

The second team was defeated by the Pennsylvania Military College team at Chester last Saturday, 7-0.

The Junior Varsity won a close game from the Middletown Athletic Club on our field last Saturday.

A TARDY ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The excellent account of the Thorpe wedding which appeared in the last issue of THE ARROW was originally printed in the Carlisle Evening Herald. In the rush of closing up our type forms for the press the credit for this article was inadvertently overlooked and we offer this as a tardy acknowledgment of our omission.

The Girls' Holy Name Society.

By Ethel Martell.

After the opening prayer the following program was rendered: Hymn, Society; piano solo, Bessie Gilland; Indian hymn, Louise Spott and Corine Starr; country experience, Mamie Girard; impromptu, Cecelia DuCharme; and hymn, society.

Mother DeChantell gave a short talk on the "Influence of Prayer."

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

David Peever has joined the printing office force.

The band is constantly increasing its membership.

The Juniors have begun the study of "Sir Launfal."

Supt. Speer brought seven Omaha boys who have enrolled.

Many girls are looking forward to the Pennsylvania game.

The halls in the Girls' Quarters are being painted green.

The Sophomore Class have begun the study of "Evangeline."

The dressmakers are making uniforms for the new students.

The "Hot Shots" were beaten at Chester, Pa., by the score of 7 to 0.

The boys had a fine time at the faculty reception last Saturday evening.

Lone Rederth, of Peever, S. Dak., has entered the Business Department.

The Band Troop now numbers about thirty, most of whom are new members.

Anna Roulette is substituting in Room 9 during the absence of Miss Georgeson.

Francis Zohn is specializing in art work under the tuition of Mr. and Mrs. Dietz.

A party of Sioux Indians arrived from South Dakota the early part of the week.

The reception given by the faculty to meet new students was greatly enjoyed by all.

Many new faces were seen at the reception given in the Gymnasium Saturday evening.

Maud Cook has recently been promoted from the shirtmaking to the dressmaking class.

The first farm boys drove sixty-two hogs to the stock yards in town last Saturday morning.

The Junior Varsity played Middletown on our own field and defeated them by a score of 7 to 10.

Ten new students, accompanied by Mr. W. Reepes, arrived from Hogsburg, N. Y., Thursday of last week.

GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS.

Mrs. Bonser's talk to the Y. W. C. A. girls was very pleasing to them. They said she reminded them of "Mother."

While the football boys were in Pittsburgh they had the pleasure of meeting a number of boys who are ex-students of Carlisle.

The Band and a large number of students will go to Philadelphia tomorrow to see the game between our team and the University of Pennsylvania.

The Rev. Dr. Knipp, of Limburg, Prussia, who has been sent by the German Government to study the industrial conditions of the United States, visited our school one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonser, of Rosebud, S. Dak., who had been here for several days visiting their children, left Tuesday for Knoxville, Tenn., to pay a visit to their daughter, Mrs. W. B. Brown.

Mr. Nori's address to the Y. W. C. A. Sunday evening contained advice worthy of our deepest consideration. Let us try, earnestly, to live up to the ideals so well portrayed for our benefit.

Friday evening some of the football boys had the pleasure of meeting, at a banquet which was held at the Shenley Hotel in Pittsburgh, some British Army officers. The most prominent man among them was General Logan.

Jeanette Pappin and Mary Bailey gave a delightful party in their room last Saturday in honor of the four girls who took part in the Susan-Mercer debate. After a nice supper they all felt that a spirit of good-fellowship still existed.

The Y. M. C. A. Service.

By Jesse Wofford.

The meeting was led by James Crane, who selected the Scripture reading from the Gospel according to St. John. After the singing of hymns, William Garlow gave a forceful talk on "The Benefits of the Y. M. C. A."

This was followed by a few remarks from Mr. Mann. Mr. Shambagh gave an excellent talk on

"The value and Meaning of the Young Men's Christian Association."

After the services there was a business meeting. Jesse Wofford was elected treasurer to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Stafford Elgin, who is now in the west.

There was a good attendance and a fine spirit manifested.

THE PROTESTANT SUNDAY SERVICE.

Rev. Mr. McMillan, of St. John's Episcopal Church, officiated at our service in the Auditorium last Sunday afternoon. The singing by the choir was excellent, and the whole service hearty. The text of the sermon was "So God loved the world, that he sent his only begotten Son," the principle thought being that the manner in which God sent the Blessed Savior into the world was the best way possible to win our love in return for his love; and that every command we obey, and every good deed we do out of love for him, is a fulfilment of the desire of God to be loved by us.

The student body gave close attention and seemed to follow the argument with interest.

The Y. W. C. A.

Thamar Dupuis led the meeting, which opened with a prayer by Rose Whipper.

The Ninety-first Psalm, read by sixteen girls each giving a verse in turn, was followed by the story of Hoffman's picture of "Christ in the Temple," by Sylvia Moon; sketches on "Immigration," by Flora Peters, Nettie Kingley, and Germaine Renville; "Come Unto Me" by the Y. M. C. A. quartette.

Mr. Nori, the speaker of the evening, gave a most inspiring talk on "Individual Development."

Mrs. Bonser, of Rosebud Agency, gave a short talk on general subjects connected with reservation life. The meeting closed with the "Mizpah."

The Boys' Catholic Meeting.

The meeting was opened by Father Stock. Addison Golden read an essay on "Michael Angelo;" George Francis gave a reading on "Present Arms;" and Edward Morrin gave the details of the Carlisle-Pittsburgh game.

RECEPTION BY FACULTY TO GREET NEW STUDENTS.

A general reception, characterized by the best of good fellowship, was given by the faculty on Saturday evening from 8.00 to 10.30 for the purpose of greeting the new students. All the students were present, and the Gymnasium, which was artistically decorated with flags, bunting, and numerous potted plants, was used for the occasion.

An orchestra from Carlisle played during the entire time, and refreshments, consisting of brick ice cream and cake, were served.

Speaking in behalf of the faculty, Superintendent Friedman extended a cordial welcome to the new students, urging them to lose no time in getting acquainted with their instructors, who are their true friends, as well as with one another. He spoke of the importance of confidence in student relationships and how acquaintanceship ripened into friendship.

The response of Miss Margaret Chilson, speaking for her fellow students, was eloquent and full of gratitude to the Carlisle school. The students sang "On With Carlisle" with fine spirit and enthusiasm.

The grand march, in which scores of couples took part, was admirably executed. Norman Thompson and Elizabeth Janis were awarded the first prize, and Louis Schweigman and Anna LaFernier, second prize. The prizes, consisting of fine large cakes especially made, were awarded by Miss Burns. Mr. Stauffer led the singing.

There was an hour of dancing. It was an enthusiastic gathering, during which faculty and students became better acquainted and loyalty to the school was uppermost.

The following program was carried out:

SLOGAN: "Get Acquainted."

1. Music by the orchestra.
2. Address of welcome by Supt. M. Friedman.
3. Music by the orchestra.
4. Response to address by Miss Margaret Chilson.
5. Song—"On with Carlisle."
6. Grand march (Three prizes.)
7. Dancing.
8. Refreshments.
9. Awarding of prizes.
10. Home, Sweet Home waltz.

THE LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Splendid meetings of the literary societies were reported for Friday evening, October 10th, but owing to the great amount of other local news these reports were omitted from last week's issue. The following programs were carried out:

THE INVINCIBLE SOCIETY.

By Max Favel.

Extemporaneous speeches, Walter Bradby, Levi Quick Bear, and David Bird; reading, Peter Jackson; oration, Hiram Chase; vocal solo, Antone Anaquot.

The debate: Resolved, "That the New York Giants have just as strong a team as the Athletics." The affirmative speakers were Roy Burton and Walter Bradby; Jesse Wafford and Zephaniah Simons upheld the negative side. The judges decided in favor of the negatives.

The official visitors were Miss Reichel, Miss Case, and Miss Jones.

THE SUSAN SOCIETY.

By Mamie Mt. Pleasant.

After singing the society song and a vocal solo by Clara Irving, there was a debate on the question: Resolved, "That the United States should annex Cuba." The affirmative speakers were Jennie Ross and Alice Tyndall; negative, Sarah Montith and Sadie Metoxen. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative side.

Miss Kaup was the official visitor.

THE MERCER SOCIETY.

By Marjorie Jamison.

Song, Mercers; recitation, Lucy West; select reading, Mamie Villcan; reading, Blanche Jollie; piano solo, Marjorie Jamison; vocal solo, Rose Peazzoni. There was no debate.

Miss Sweeney was the official visitor.

THE STANDARD SOCIETY.

By James Welch.

Francis Obern, Philip Clairmont, Addison Golden, John Razer, Robert Geronimo, and David Belin were initiated into the society.

The question debated was: Resolved, "That foreign immigration should be further restricted by law." John Gokee and Frank Holmes, affirmatives; James Garvie and Francis LeMere, negatives. The negative side won.

Miss Burns and Miss Hagen were the official visitors.

LAST CHANCE FOR FREE LAND.

Fort Peck Indian Reservation in Montana to Be Opened.

The last large tract of Indian land available for homesteading is the Fort Peck Indian Reservation in the western part of Montana. One and a third million acres there have been opened to the public by President Wilson's proclamation. Filing of applications for land began September 1 and continued until September 20. The land will be open to actual settlement May 1, 1914.

The registration places were Glasgow, Harve, and Great Falls, Mont. The final drawing was at Glasgow, commencing September 23. This is a very fertile section and agricultural experts figure that it will add, when developed, twenty million bushels of grain annually to the nation's supply. The reservation is 693 miles west of St. Paul and Minneapolis and is easily reached over the Great Northern Railway. Six new towns will be opened on this reservation. This is the last large tract of Indian land to be opened to the public in the United States. Part of this land has to be irrigated but much of it raises good crops without artificial water. The land is already valuable but with the drawing it will go up rapidly. The land will be allotted by drawing so that everybody will have an equal chance. Wheat is the staple crop, but the soil lends itself to many grains and fruits. Some very remarkable yields have been reported in this section. An Indian named Iron Teeth, living three miles east of Poplar, had an oats field of 200 acres that went 80 bushels to the acre. This without irrigation. An Indian woman named Mrs. Proctor, four miles north of that town, raised some sixty day oats that made a great yield. She did not use irrigation.

Any person who is the head of a family, or who is twenty-one years old and a citizen of the United States, or has filed a declaration to become such, and who already has not a quarter section of land, is entitled to draw for a farm. —Leslie's.

PERSONALS ABOUT OUTING STUDENTS

Christine Metoxen is attending school in West Chester, Pa.

Jane Gayton writes of a pleasant outing home in Glenolden, Pa.

Mary Gray, who is living in Oak Lane, Pa., reports having a very pleasant home.

A card from Nellie Brave states that she is pleased with her home in Waynesboro, Pa.

Alta Printup writes from her Outing home at Landowne, Pa., that she is well and happy.

Lucy Lane writes from Narberth, Pa., that she has a good home and is attending public school.

Jane Gayton and Marie Mason send word that they are very much pleased with their Outing homes.

"Elsie Bonser is at school every day and doing finely"—so says her country mother, Mrs. J. F. Russell.

Of Whitney Schenandore, Miss Peck writes; "Whitney is a good farmer and has done all he possibly could. He is very kind and obliging."

Mrs. Hanna Haines, Moorestown, N. J., writes of Eleanor Houck: "Eleanor has made a very good beginning for so young a child, and I hope she will keep on improving."

Miss Lucena Peck, Tullytown, Pa., writes of Joseph Denny: "Joseph is a good farmer and has been faithful to every duty, adding much to my comfort through an anxious summer."

Mrs A. E. Bittler, Sharon Hill, Pa., says of Frances Roberts: "Frances is a good girl. We are glad to have her with us again, and we will do all we can to help her advance herself in every way."

Gertrude Bresette, Marie Poupert, Gertrude Plenty, Mamie Hall, and Lena Wapoose write of pleasant homes in Jenkintown, Pa., Lansdowne, Pa., Moorestown, N. J., and West Chester, Pa., respectively.

Mr. Geo. K. Fulmer, Bridgeville, N. J., writes of Ned Wilnota as follows: "We are pleased to inform you our new boy, Ned Wilnota is doing finely. He is good-natured, willing, and tries to do his work as well as he can. We very much appreciate your sending us a boy of his character."
