PERHAPS the most valuable lesson of all education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you have to do, when it ought to be done, whether you like it or not; it is the first lesson that ought to be learned; and, however early a man's training begins, it is probably the last lesson that he learns thoroughly.

Professor Huxley.

Let us cultivate the soil. Most men toil that they may own a piece of it; they measure their success in life by their ability to buy it. No man but feels more of a man in the world if he have a bit of ground that he he can call his own. However small it is on the surface, it is four thousand miles deep; and that is a very handsome property.—

Charles Dudley Warner.

Rules for Inspection

The Weekly Inspection Committees will govern themselves by the following rules:

1—Notice particularly the condition of the walks, courts, and grounds immediately surrounding the buildings.

2—Observe the porches, banisters, staircases, halls, walls, ceilings, doors, and windows.

3—Examine all beds, bureaus, wardrobes, boxes, and other articles in the students' rooms.

4—Take special note of the general appearance of each room, and offer suggestions as to a better arrangement of the furniture and wall decorations.

5—Jot down any lack of discipline or irregularity seen or heard among the students; observe their neatness and cleanliness, and take the name of any student who seems to be indisposed.

6—Inquire particularly into all things which may seem to need improvement.

7—Trace any apparent waste and suggest remedial measures.

8—Make note of any repairs or structural improvements needed.

9—See that the chairman of the committee has in his possession, before leaving the building inspected, the criticisms and suggestions gathered during the inspection.

10—The first person named on the committee will act as chairman. Although a written report is not expected each week, the chairman should report in writing to the Superintendent any suggestions or criticisms deemed pertinent or necessary.

11—No member of an inspection committee shall absent himself or herself from inspection without the written consent of the Superintendent. In which case, the written excuse must be sent to the office of the building to be inspected in time for the chairman to read it before the inspection begins.

12—The Disciplinarian and Matron shall accompany the Inspection Committee through Quarters, and make a note of all criticisms made by the committee.

Regulations Governing Literary Societies

MEMBERSHIP.

Membership in the literary societies will be of two kinds—active and associate. All members of Grades VII and VIII and all students taking any of the special vocational courses must become active members of a literary society. Pupils below Grade VII may be elected to associate membership. Associate members will not be allowed to vote or hold office.

Each society shall elect a teacher or other employee to serve as advisory member during the year. The Principal of the Academic Division will be ex-officio an advisory member of all the literary societies.

WORK REQUIRED.

Satisfactory literary society work will be required from each student in Grade VII and VIII and the special vocational courses. Failure along these lines may be deemed sufficient cause for demotion, or the prevention of promotion.

QUESTIONS FOR DEBATE.

All questions for debate for regular meetings must be approved by the advisory member and all questions and contestants for public meetings must be approved by the Superintendent before further action is taken thereon.

ABSENCE FROM SOCIETY MEETINGS.

Unexcused absence of an active member from three regular society meetings during the year may be deemed sufficient cause for such disciplinary action as the Superintendent may see fit to take. All excuses must be in writing and must come from the Disciplinarian (or the Matron for the girls) or from higher authority.

OFFICIAL VISITORS.

No official visitor shall absent himself or herself from the meetings as scheduled without the consent of the Superintendent, in which case the official visitor will provide a substitute.

OWING to promulgation of the new courses of study which became effective September 1, 1915, there will be no Graduating Class in 1916.

Instructions to Teachers

On Grading the Class Room Work of Pupils

Although classroom progress can never be exactly reckoned in mathematical terms, still it is always advisable to keep some sort of mathematical record to go by in determining the standing of a pupil. Teachers will therefore be guided by the following instructions, which apply to all work, whether academic or industrial, the term class room being applicable to work shop, farm, garden, sewing room, laundry, bakery, printing office, etc., as well as to a room in the academic building.

The daily work of each pupil in each subject recited upon or line of industrial work followed shall be graded upon a basis of 100. A perfect recitation, or flawless work of any sort, should be marked 100; anything considered "very good" should be marked from 90 to 99, as the merits of the case may warrant; "good," 80 to 89; "fair," 70 to 79. Anything less than "fair" is unsatisfactory and should be marked from 69 down to 0, as the case may warrant.

If, as sometimes happens, a pupil is present in the class or shop but is not given an opportunity to recite or work, his rating for that day shall be the average of all positive ratings given for recitation in that subject during that month (it can not be determined until the close of the month).

Absence from a recitation or from work of any sort shall occasion a rating of 0. If the absence was due to neglect, or misbehavior, or vicious practices, etc., upon the part of the pupil, no opportunity shall be given him to make up the time lost.

Failure to hand in written work at the time specified by the teacher shall detract from the value of the work, no matter what its merits might otherwise be.

Cheating in any manner whatsoever, either in oral or written work, shall occasion a rating of 0, no matter what the merits of the recitation or work might otherwise be.

For Grades IV to VIII, at the close of October, December, February, and May, the daily ratings in each academic or industrial subject shall be summed up and the sum divided by the number of recitations held in that subject or, in the case of industrial work, by the number of times the pupil was supposed to receive instruction or render service in that particular line during the period for which the report is made. The quotient shall be the pupil's class standing in that subject for that period and shall be recorded upon the report forms provided for that purpose.

Some teachers, at the close of each bi-monthly period give a written test or review of the work covered during that period. In such cases, in the discretion of the teacher, the class standing for the period may be one-half of the rating given on the written test plus one-half of the quotient obtained as per instructions in the preceding paragraph.

For the classes taking the special vocational courses above Grade VIII, reports similar to those described in the foregoing two paragraphs will be rendered at the close of each term as defined in the Catalogue and Synopsis of Courses.

Each pupil shall be given a rating in "conduct in school" and "conduct in quarters" for the bimonthly periods, and these ratings shall be recorded on the reports above required.

Daily ratings should not be communicated to any pupil; but from time to time, each pupil should be informed of his standing in each subject and appropriate admonition should be given in case of unsatisfactory work.

At the close of each bi-monthly period, or term, the names of the ten pupils having highest academic rank for that period should be posted in a conspicuous place in the school room. However, whenever the conduct of such a pupil has been unsatisfactory, his name should be omitted from the list and the list completed by taking the name or names next in order below the name ranking tenth.

For the classes above Grade VIII, the lists discussed in the preceding paragraph should be posted upon the bulletin board instead of in the school room.

Instructors in the various industries should also post in their respective shops at the close of each bi-monthly period, or term, the names of from five to ten of the highest ranking students for that period.

For relation of class standing (as hereinbefore discussed) to promotion, see "An Outline of the Course of Study for Academic Grades" (September, 1914).

¶ Whatever job I am on is the most important thing I have to do, whether there be six cents or six million dollars involved.

Thomas W. Lawson.

The best reward for having wrought well already is to have more to do; and he that has been faithful over a few things must find his account in being made ruler over many things. That is the true and heroical rest, which is only worthy of gentlemen and sons of God.—Charles Kingsley.

And he gave it for his opinion that whoever could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before would deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together.—Dean Swift.
