The Red Man an Helper.

PRINTED EVERY FRIDAY BY APPRENTICES AT THE INDIAN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL, CARLISLE, PA.

This is the number gour time mark on THE RED MAN. SEVENTEENTH YEAR, or Vol. XVII No. 37 (17-37)

FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1902.

Consolidated Red Man and Helper Vol. II, Number Thirty-three Easter.

T IS EASTER in the garden. Though the ground is cold and dead; There is something rising. rising, In your little garden bed.

For the snowdrops and the crocus Heard the calling of the sun; And the jonquils and the tulips Lift their leaf hands one by one

On the lawn the coming army Of the brave green grasses rise. And among them, see, the violets Lift their blue and dewy eyes.

Oh, it's Easter in the garden. Is it Easter, dear, with you? In your heart is God's word growing As the grass and violets do? -[Picture Lesson Paper.

FROM MRS. PRATT, OFF ALGIERS, AFRICA.

DEAR REDMAN AND HELPER:

We are having an experience for which we were not "booked," neither was it anticipated, and certainly not desired, but to begin at the beginning:

We arrived and anchored out about two miles from shore, Thursday evening at 6 that day. o'clock.

We had dined early so that we could were prisoners. have an evening ashore.

The weather was disagreeable -a drizzling rain, but in spite of the fact that we expected to have nearly a whole day ashore, on the morrow, we embarked with several hundred others on a coal barge. which was towed by a little steam tug, and we slowly moved toward Algiers, a city which rises from the harbor in a semi-circular order; and even in the gloom of a rainy evening, the buildings looked substantial,

The glitter of electric lights and the sight of civilized carriages and swiftrunning street-cars established us with such confidence that four of us left the big party which was under a guide, and leisurely walked by ourselves up the terraced streets, through the handsome arcades, which one must see to appreciate, and we wished our streets were built like those.

Solidity and comfort with well-paved streets give one the idea of a modern city. And we recall the fact that Algiers has been noted in history as the "land of pirates."

Less than one hundred years ago it was the terror of the civilized world.

From all accounts it was a happy day for Algiers when it came under the control of France.

It is said that the occupation of Algiers city that rainy evening.

tractive, and we promised ourselves the on his way to Rome pleasure of going to the most elegant one the next day for a :eal French dinner.

We see a news-stand, and it seems like London edition of the New York Herald. of New Mexico.

How eagerly we scan the news from the United States, but find nothing specially to interest us but your blizzard, remember the suffering caused by a snow shore. blizzard. As we are too far away to help while we wait for pleasant news.

We go back to our ship in a row-boat.

we retire with well-defined plans of what for our landing. we are to do and the sights we are to see tomorrow.

A rough sea and a pouring rain in the who walks the ship's bridge. February 23, 1902. morning made us decide to wait for a change in the weather.

Many of our fellow passengers had remained on shore all night, and a hundred those who wish to see Malta must be carthe morning, which proved to be the only one that carried people off the Celtic

The wind increased in its fury, and we

We tried to be thankful that we were aboard a big, strong boat which defied the angry waves that dashed against its sides.

We looked over at the "promised land" but could not enter, and grievous was out disappointment.

Toward noon a staunch little steam tug came out over the swelling waves. We watched the vessel as it arose on the crest of a wave and than sink into a trough of the sea which seemed almost to swallow it up, but on it came.

Our brave sailor stood gallantly waiting on the swinging stairs with ropes about 5,000 are usually stationed here," ready to toss to the sailor aboard the and we were impressed with the strength little vessel which circled several times of Britain's hand, holding inher grasp, so before it could come near enough to swing the few passengers on to the steps.

It was a perilous undertaking, so much so that another and larger launch which edge. soon followed was ordered back.

Our gloomy day passed. We went early to bed. The morning brought little cheer. There were streaks of sunshine, and we watched with much anxiety the return of our favored friends who had been two days in Algiers.

All were safely aboard at five o'clock of color. Saturday evening, and we are now on our way to Malta.

On the Mediterranean, February 25th.

To one at home or abroad the toiler

"glasses we could look at the rocky point detailed description. The French cafes were bright and at- where St Paul was ship-wrecked when spot.

A little boat comes tossing over the waves; the pilot and our ship's Captain ing of a window, two prisoners are lookhold an animated conversation. We soon ing on with terror which gives us enough anxiety, for we realize we have anchored five miles from shovel the snow, we will try to be patient roll toward us and circle around our ship; some one gives us the information that Mr. Clark has gone ashore,

We continue to wait, while we make "remarks" about our British Captain

About noon many little row boats come bobbing over the dark blue waters.

Soon we are made to understand that eral's grounds, but have seen finer. way off.

We find our courage oozing as we watch a goat stopped at the door. the difficulty experienced by those who make the venture.

a sober and disappointed party.

Luncheon is announced, and after hot soup and coffee we decide to "do and dare.'

Down the swinging stairs we walked and were practically thrown into the row-boats and carried out to one of the launches; island in the sea, and from the lighted after being PULLED into that we went to Malta.

larger boats that had graciously moved

"The Maltese island belongs to Great ship. Britain, and troops to the number of tenaciously this valuable sea port, right in the middle of the Mediterranean Sea.

Forts old and new rise from the water's

We step ashore and enter carriages narrow streets paved with sand-stone.

The buildings, forts and all, are built of sand-stone-a yellowish gray.

The pretty over-hanging balconies with

Owing to the lateness of the hour of our landing we could not go to Citta Vecchia-the "Old City" that was founded many centuries before the Christian of people on the streets of that strange before our ship anchored, and with our esting, but our visit was too hasty for a Behind one of the altars, we looked at a painting representing the beheading A tall square monument marks the of John the Baptist which we were told was "unquestionably by Michael An-We try to "think up," as we approach gelo." The figures are life like; the exeold times to stop to buy a daily paper-a this shadeless island which reminds us cution over, the headsman is stooping to pick up the severed head, the jailor is there with his keys, and from the grat-

> Other important characters are represented, but we could not linger to fully We wait and wait, then little steam tugs appreciate the artist's wonderful conception, for we were hurried on.

We were taken to the Armory where the armors of the Knights of Malta are A bloomered Moor is our oarsman, and presumably to make further arrangements kept, and our guide was most anxious that we should be impressed with the valor of "gone-by Knights."

We were shown the Parliament Hall. The walls are covered with old tapestry paintings, hundreds of years old.

We walked through the Governor Gen-

We went shopping, drove about the more got off to town by the first boat in ried first in these to the rolling vessels a town, saw many goats and knew that 'milking time'' on this island was when

> We were taken up to the top-most street, which seemed to be over one of We are no longer an eager crowd, but the forts, and had a grand view of town, harbor and the hills beyond.

> > We resented the hurrying, but night was falling and our ship afar off.

Again we were on the rolling launch, steaming out to sea.

Our great ship loomed up like a small decks we could see many heads, and could imagine the anxious faces peering We found a smooth harbor, cleared of into the darkness, watching for our coming, as we had to depend upon little rowto one side to make room for the Celtic. boats to take us from the launch to our

> It seemed ages before our turn came to make the crossing.

> When we reached the ship-side, our boat danced on the rising and falling waves.

> When the boat rises we are told to jump. A sailor grabs us and holds us until we get our feet on the steps.

Then we ascend, and our friends alwhich are soon taking us up through the most embrace us as we step on deck again.

About 500 of the passengers failed to get ashore.

We are promised an easier landing at. their green shades make pleasing spots Piræus, where we take tram-cars for Athens, five miles distant.

It is time for "lights out" so we turn to our pillow to dream of to-morrow and Athens.

has cost the French of 150,000 men and about $600,000,000 in bitterness of disappointment, and we, a money.

When we first met the Moors and Arabs we thought they looked quite capable of piracy, but they were picturesque and interesting, and we tried to learn which was which.

We would tell each other that the Moors they looked alike to us and are all Mohambefore the evening was over.

shop three Algerian soldiers who wore sky, and all seemed so auspiciou. for a ed pleasant greetings.

The motley throng of Oriental people, of Americans all made a strange mingling bright morning we were in readiness long and the pleasure seeker each knows the party of tourists have begun to lament.

There are disadvantages, we find, in being aboard the "largest ship afloat", at least that fact is given for anchoring "way off" from the harbors.

We accepted with considerable grace were "you know, natives of Morocco, and the "reason" for not entering the harbor the Arabs the children of the desert," but at Algiers. The sea was rough and we did not know the harbor soundings, medans, and very friendly, we learned, but when we neared Malta, that harbor which is considered the best in the paintings, rich marbles and elaborate As we stepped from the door-way of a world and 60 feet deep, there was a clear carvings.

bloomers and turbans and carried swords grand day of sight-seeing, on an island morial Mosaic slabs representing some stopped to look at us, and we at them. so historic that we wonder if we can re- most ghastly skulls and skeletons is re-Their faces were kindly and we exchang- member, even half of what we have corded in Latin, French Spanish and anxious ones, in chorus. read, of the tragical dramas of the past. other languages the virtues and valor of the cultured Frenchman and the groups men of Rome, 200 years ago; so on this neath.

home of Publius, who enand the tertained Paul.

As our time is limited we look at the to the Church of St. John which is dear nection with Mrs. Pratt's letter: to the hearts of the Knights of St. John.

The exterior of the Church is simple, but the interior is gorgeous.

We pass through the enormous doors over which hangs a heavy leathern curtain.

The vast nave is beautiful in its great

On the floor with its innumerable me-

The sons of Malta were representative the distinguished Knights buried be- Celtic might be as dangerous as a mad

There are mural paintings most inter-

THE CRUISE OF THE CELTIC.

The following from the London Expoints of interest near and are driven press will be read with interest in con-

> The holiday trip of the 800 wealthy Americans in the Mediterranean is being filled with unexpected incidents.

> The guidebook called it "sunny Algiers." But when the first officer pointed out the white city on the coast last Thursday afternoon there was no sun, but dismal rain, lowering clouds, and a heavy sea.

> The Captain of the Celtic looked at the prospect and shook his head.

'We stay outside the harbor," said he. "Oh, please let us land," said the 800

But the Captain was obdurate. The

(Continued on last page.)

THE RED MAN AND HELPER-FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1902.

THE RED MAN AND HELPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY IN THE INTERESTS OF THE RISING INDIAN

The Mechanical Work on this Paper is Done by Indian Apprentices

TERMS: TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

Address all Correspondence: Miss M. Burgess, Supt. of Printing, Carlisle, Pa.

Entered in the Post Office at Carlisle, Pa., as Second-class matter.

Do not hesitate to take this paper from the Post Office, for if you have not paid for it some one else has Editorial.

Time is a commodity that is in a way unlimited. Yet everyone finds himself Pilfering. under certain circumstances complaining of a lack of it.

Now, it is not time that is lacking, but disposition to use it rightly, or lack of judgment in so disposing of our duties, so proportioning the time element as to do what really needs to be done.

Every one finds time to do what he good or pleasure. WILL do. Many are so wanting in power to think and plan that much of every day is lost to him and to the world.

Time used in vigorous play is not wasted nor lost, but time used in idle, listless nanging about without thought, without when theft is mentioned. conversation, without aim, is worse than wasted.

It is usually such people, and people with like qualities that plead "lack of time.'

We have all the time there is, and we are wanting in force of character if we do not take the time needed to do, 1st:-all the things that OUGHT to be done, and 2nd :- all the things in order that will tend to bring out of us the best that is in us.

How quickly a flippant excuse rises to our lips when detected in a fault, or corrected for some little lapse. Now, have later in life. you ever thought that excusing oneself is really often ACCUSING oneself?

We are responsible for our own actions and not the other fellow, or some external thing. How much better to take the comment in correction quietly, though it cism, sometimes severe reproof alone stings; and grow better and stronger, will awaken the guilty one to this fault. more careful and thoughtful. Sometimes we may not fully deserve it, but our attitude and future effort can best prove that, not excuse.

People who are exceedingly sensitive to criticism, are often weak and powerless in their chosen calling. The glaring faults of their work, due to their own incompetency, is invariably attributed to some one else's neglect or influence.

Boys and girls instinctively drop into this habit of excusing themselves on records. every occasion, and sad to say, never break it up. They get to believe it finally, and stand as one of a class of abused be just as ready carelessly to take up the and mistreated people, in their own wrong thing as the right one. judgment, all their lives.

save much needless suffering.

strength, but foolishness. No duties normal state before impairment.

"There is a distinction between education and training. The latter is a factor in the former. . . Education embraces all the processes by which a human soul comes to have contact in larger and larger measure with all other souls. It is the resultant of all the forces by virtue of whose influence a human being finds his faculty daily to grow in power and abiliplace in the world. The education is successful when the individual finds for him self the best place of which he is capable."-[Henry S. Pritchett, Mass. Inst. of Technology, Boston.

The girl or boy who goes into a home, and forgets himself so far as to rummage through his employer's house, and appropriate little things he may covet, is on most unsafe ground.

The appropriation of anything that does not belong to you is stealing, pure and simple, and will never bring you

A trinket, a piece of lace or ribbon thus taken will never give you joy, and all your life the deed will remain a blemish, burning, stinging, humiliating you.

You cannot hide the fact. Your face puts on a guilty look ever,

The world may not suspect, but YOU know you are a thief

Young people want to weigh such matters.

Meddling.

One of the hardest things for young peothat do not belong to them, or to refrain ties last Friday night from inquiring needlessly into business of others.

Sometimes it takes the form of too freely discussing the business of friends and neighbors.

paving the way for much needless trouble in their class society work.

control, that our curiosity in many directions be always curbed and kept under.

The meddlesome person is always a person of coarse mental make-up.

OUR OUTING.

Our Spring "hegira" will begin tomorrow.

Scores of boys and girls are waiting eagerly hour to start to their country homes.

Many know that good, earnest, faithful work is expected of them, and they are ready to do it.

They are old, tried, trusted toilers. They pride themselves on their past

Others have thought little about it.

They seek change, diversion, and will companions, alternate with duty would strength and energy for legitimate duty, plan and so toil, that our physical powers has been done. The employer will KNOW SO.

can do without.

and that he is solving the "Indian Prob- year with the present Band. lem.

10. He will use every sense and every ty. He will use leisure time wisely.

11. He will grow strong by choosing to have come into his daily life, only the best influences and companions.

12. He will remember all the time, that "God and he are a majority."

KINDLY CRITICISM OF OUR SOCIETIES.

Society meetings, generally speaking, all the Y. M. C. A. boys especially. are well conducted. Sometimes business from want of decision on the part of the chairman. There is too much irrelevant discussion.

Things should never be left in an uncertain or indefinite state.

Remarks should not be allowed unless upon the question under discussion, which is generally under a motion or the special order of business.

The Susans had an election of officers on Tuesday night.

They did it quietly and in a business like way. Good for the Madam president. She is not a mismanager, but a Missmanager.

It has been a great pleasure to see the pupils hold down so strictly to business self is that she is well and happy. during the winter.

It is a glorious thing to have such self- SEVENTEEN INDIAN GIRLS GIVE PLEASURE. baby in her little coach at Carlisle.

listening to seventeen bright young In- their Carlisle friends dian girls sing praises to Him who is the ber present we have ever had. We were of the Third Christian Church, and espe- the Fall. cially its Y. P. S. C. E.

The girls sang and behaved well, though I was not surprised for I have visited them several times, and they are always very lady like and exceedingly polite.

He no doubt refers to Indian girls from the Lincoln Institution.

University of Pennslyvania, at Phila

BASE BALL.

Susquehanna, at Carlisle.
 Dickinson, on Indian field.

Gettysburg, at Carlisle.
 Cornell, at Ithaca.

May 2nd. Franklin & Marshall, at Carlisle,

Labanon Valley, at Carlisle,

Dickinson, on Dickinson field.

University of W. Virginia at Morgantown. University of W. Virginia at Morgantown-

It will be noticed that the schedule is not as elaborate as that of last season, but games far from home as these interfered

Allbright, at Myerstown.

Gettysburg at Gettysburg.

Bucknell, at Carlisle.

" 18, Bucknell at Lewisburg

The student items this week were full to run about much at night or on Sunday. of the open-air Band concert last Satur-6. He will always be true to his trust, day night, it being the first of the season, It is not heroic to work beyond one's and truthful, never meddling or pilfering. and the early evening so delightful. The 7. Will be so trusty that the employer Band played some new music, adapted to need require it. It is our business to so need not look up his work to see that it the understanding of all, and the pieces were beautifully rendered, which was as after a season of work can rebound to the that it is done because "his Indian" said great a surprise as it was a delight, for several of the supposed-to-be-best-play-8. He will save his hard earned cash, ers have left. It shows that we can DO and not spend it aimlessly for things he something, if we ARE handicapped. The leader, Mr. James Wheelock is gaining 9. He will never forget that possibilities the confidence of himself as well as of of his race will be gauged by what he does, his hearers, and we predict an enjoyable

> Norris Vacavoy Antone writes that since he married he has changed his name to Edward Moore. At his home in Lehi, Arizona, there has been no rain for months and everything is very dry, and yet he speaks of the wheat coming up nicely. They must depend upon irrigation. He is trying to lead a good life every step upward rests with him alone. although the temptations are many and strong. He always reads the RED MAN and enjoys it. His tribe is improving, but some still cling to the old Indian ways. He wishes to be remembered to

> It is said that a young chief of the Yuki matters drag out to a needless length, tribe of Indians is on his way from Mendocino county to the University of California to help the ethnologists to record the manners, customs and beliefs of his people. He is a full blooded Yuki, but speaks and writes English fluently. At one time the Yukis were the fiercest Indians in California. The language of the tribe will be recorded and preserved in the University by means of a phonograph.

Lucy Ramone, who is at Sacaton Ariz. often thinks of herfriends at Carlisle. She says the Indians there are suffering for want of rain. "While I was reading about the Commencement in the paper, Visiting committees spoke very encour- she says, "I feel as though I was there ple to learn, is to keep hands off of things, agingly of the work in the various socie- and had seen everything that has been going on during the Commencement week." The best news she gives of her-

Mrs.Campbell of Chemawa, has been ill, There has been a great coming up in the and we learn through a private letter that society work, due in part to the patient, Irene substituted for her in the school-Such people are meddlesome, and are painstaking efforts of teachers and pupils room Just think how "tempus does fugit" as the old woman said. It has seemed but a year or two since Irene was a

A letter from Juanada Parker tells us of Joseph W. Johnson who is Chairman her brother Harold who went home on of the Christian Endeavor Missionary account of ill health. He has been in Committee of the Third Christian Church, good health until recently, and now he is Sometimes advice, counsel and criti- Philadelphia, says by letter that "on unable to go up stairs for lack of strength. Sunday evening, we had the pleasare of They wish to be remembered to all of > Inez King, class 1902, is living with her Father of all. We had the greatest num- aunt in Green Bay, Wisconsin, and is enjoying the opportunities she is having. actually captured by the Indians. They She has joined the Epworth League, have crept into the hearts of the members and expects to attend business college in

> > Frank Jude, who went home last summer, thinks he will return in the near future and finish. While here he was a member of the printing force, and also took conspicuous part in the athlectic sports.-

The American mule is proving a gem of purest ray serene in South Africa. Like all other possessors of rea genius The following baseball schedule has mule had to go away from home to be apbeen arranged for the coming season: preciated .- [Industrial School News. April 5, Franklin & Marhall, at Lancaster.

fulness and consideration under all circumstances, and a willingness to learn by favorable and unfavorable criticism, are helpful. qualities that mark a boy for a successful career.

We grind our lives out in a little whirl of ceaseless, unnecessary toil, and gnash our teeth at its barrenness, never dreaming that the barrenness is unnecessary and self-inflicted. Work, hard work is a blessing; is enjoyable; is ennobling. But it can and should be followed by play, recreation, association. Overwork is as morning. wrong as it is unnecessary.

A careful adjustment of time so that but on time always.

They sign the rules, but have not weighed their meaning, sometimes having in One's best effort all the time; thought- mind and heart to break them when opportunity comes.

Here are a few thoughts that may be

Some one who knows, and has seen our boys under the fire of trial, says:

The Ideal Outing Boy.

1. Will sign the rules and keep them as he keeps his honor and health.

2 He will take care to understand his employer's instructions and follow them closely.

3 He will be called but once in the it was thought best not to arrange so many

4. He will be first at work, not lagging too much with the school work. behind on all occasions, and last to quit, recreation in the open air, with pleasant 5. He will be too anxious to save his Indian School, Oregon, has a new piano. home in Wisconsin,- 22.

24.

30.

31.

14,

66

June 6.

A letter has been received from Mrs. Juanita Bibancos Charles of Hupa, Cal. She says that she is well, and enjoying life. She is also anxious to hear from friends at Carlisle .--

Miss Botsford has a position in Washington, D. C. after having many and varied experiences in the Indian field since she left Carlisle, years ago.

A letter from Mrs. Philip Lavatta shows that her husband Philip, a former student of Carlisle, is in business on the reservation.-

The tees in Oklahoma showed their leaves two weeks ago. This means spring has come there to stay.-

The friends of Melinda Metoxen are Superintendent Potter of the Chemawa making things pleasant for her, at her

THE RED MAN AND HELPER-FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1902.

Man=on=the=band=stand.

Frog choruses.

Glorious weather!

"We lift as we rise."

Dusty roads, already.

Good bye, storm doors!

Where is that Equinoctial storm?

Gorgeous moonlight these evenings.

Many town people are on the move.

To talk much of one's sorrows makes one weak.

Next thing we will have a dry spell! See if we don't!

The Spring poem has not yet been sprung in this region.

Members of the Sophomore class expect to organize a baseball team.-

The Normal pupils are having recess as the days are getting warmer .-

The hens at the farm are doing their duty for Easter. Eggs-actly!

The carpenters are hard at work upon the new fence, at the lower farm .-

Austin Wheelock, has gone to his home in Wisconsin to recuperate in body.

water, and it is all ready for bathing .-

The two dress-making classes are very busy finishing the country girls' dresses.-

Any fool can swear, says an exchange, and it might be added that most fools do. perience.

Girls, I wouldn't look at a boy who is too lazy to keep his teeth clean .- M. O. T. B S.

There is quite a demand for the cancelled stamps that come on the letters from abroad.

Prof. Bakeless gave the students a very interesting talk about the formation of land.-

Miss Annie Minthorn said she was studying Lot's wife, when she had a lesson in salt.-

The Cuban Giants were defeated by the Juveniles at a game of base ball, on Tuesday evening .-

It is charming to hear the sweet songs of Robin Redbreast early in these beautiful mornings.-

Our moonlight nights the past week have been as beautiful as those of the western plains

Edyth L. Armstrong has returned to Moorestown, from her home, and is glad to get back, she says.

The trailing-arbutus in North Carolina is in bloom. WE will soon be having arbutus hunting parties -

The tables for the debaters of the Standard Society are finished now and will be used next Friday night.-

"Lives that lift," was well discussed by a number of the students in the Sunday evening prayer meeting.-

This beautiful weather may be simply leaning back to take a new hold, so as to send March out like a lion.

Mr. Jas. Wheelock has been confined to his bed for a few days with fever, but noon, to from 7:30 to 8:30 in the morning cayed teeth, but it is worse yet to have is up again at this writing.

The Standards are always glad to wel- baseball and track team .-

William Mt. Pleasant, 1902, has arrived from New York State, to enter Dickinson Prevaratory line Now we wish they would turn a hose on the cars inside and out.

The lecture on liquid air at the attended by some of our pupils and teachers.-

Assistant Superintendent and Mrs. Allen entertained another happy company of co-workers on Friday evening. We like it!

Joseph Ruiz joined the orchestra that accompanies the singing on Sunday afternoons. He has also entered the printingoffice.-

noon for the first time this Spring. Our roads have been unfit for walking before this.-

Miss Jackson went to Newville last week to visit the girls there. She reports that they are well and enjoying themselves.-

In Mrs Pettinos' poem, Via Dolorosa, last week, our typo made the word "No' Mr. Weber has the cage supplied with read "As" in 9th line, first stanza. We are sorry.

> Adam Johnson, one of our Band members, is making excellent progress on the Saxaphone after but a few months ex-

Mrs. John, from New York State, who was on her way home from Washington C., stopped and visited the school on D Monday and Tuesday.-

The Seniors are enjoying their Botany study very much. They were out on Monday for the first time this season, to look at the budding of trees.-

That friendly whisper some one kindly sends us this week in the shape of an Enigma, last page, may be read with profit by students here as well as on the farm.

Mr. George Foulk entertained some of much, as ours has long passed by .the large boys, in one of the boys' rooms, with his new Phonograph. Mr. Foulk has about sixty records in his possession.-

Those were dainty little cards attached to the large card of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Bernice Ettinger, and they read Elizabeth Anderson Ettinger, Friday March 7 th, 1902.

The girls bicycles have all been brought up from the cellar, and we hope that the bright Spring weather will continue, so that we may find enjoyment in riding around .--

Smith and Stewart will visit the Standards, and Miss Forster and Mrs. Cook the Susans.

The sociable on Saturday evening last came earlier in the month than usual to scrupulously neat in their dress and so accommodate the out-going country boys disgustingly careless about their teeth. and girls, and they enjoyed the hour to- Booh! They smile and show a row of gether all the more.

A letter from Mr. Walter says that Dennison Wheelock has organized a taking physiological examinations.-Band at Flandreau, South Dakota, where The line-men are repairing the trolly he is employed, and it is said to be a very be out to Bucks Co., once more .good one.-

A letter received from Mr. Chas. F. Coleman, class 1902, says he is right Opera House on Monday evening was down to business, working at Santa Ana who are going out to-morrow to country for a white man, and probably will find a homes.job at the blacksmith's trade at San Bernardino, Calif., later .-

> A meeting of Indian citizens was called for March 18th at Atoka, Ind. Ter. to demand that the Government make an equal division of the 1 million acres of land and the 3 million dollars in money belonging to the Chickasaws and Choctaws.

Miss Elnora B. Jamison who went to The girls went walking on Sunday after- the Blockley Hospital in Phila., writes that she is having a verygood time and enjoys her work. She has two hours off duty every afternoon and five hours off duty on Sundays. She says she could not ask for a better companion than her roommate.-

> One of the Sophomore.girls is in correspondence with a school girl in Lindsay, Canada. The Lindsay students have hand. The letters are very interesting to the entire class.

> The ground is too DAMP to lie upon or to sit upon. You may not die, but you may get something WORSE than deathrheumatism, consumption, malaria, tonforget that God never fails to PUNISH a person who breaks one of His laws.

A recent letter from Arthur Sickles at his home in Wisconsin, says he is enjoyis clearing land, getting ready to farm in the last few days, and he enjoyed himself his load. skating, for which we envy him very

On Friday the 21st, the Susans chose der; Recording Secretary, Sturm; Corresponding Secretary, Rose Nelson; Treasurer Sophia Warren; Mar Skye; and Critic, Lillian Brown.-

The debate. Resolved that the U.S. should buy the Panama canal given by the members of the Sophomore class on Thursday evening the 20th inst., was a very good one. The speakers were Nicholas Pena, Hill's turn to visit the Invincibles; Misses on the Affirmative; Jesse Davis, Amelia Kennedy and Joseph B. Luna, on the Negative. The debate was dicided in favor of the Affirmative.-

Strange, isn't it, how some fellows are filthy teeth. No brush? That is no ex-The Band practice hour has been cuse. Take a mop, a pick, anything! changed from 4 to 5 o'clock in the after- Much ill health may be attributed to de-This was done to accommodate the GOOD teeth, and then be willing to carry Carlisle. food in them from meal to meal. Booh!

The boys that go to the country are

Many of the boys are very anxious to

Candidates are wanted in the kitchen, stable, steam plant and on the two farms to fill the vacancies made by the boys

Miss Wood has given the class a good idea of what liquid air can do, or what can be done with it, she having attended the lecture in the Opera House, on Monday evening .-

The Susans say that they have not had a better President than Earney Wilbur. Many are sorry that her term of office has expired, but it is believed that Lillian Cornelius will make a very good President, also.-

Joel Cornelius was in charge of No. 12 on Monday morning, and William White on Monday afternoon, during the absence of Mrs Cook., who went as far as Harrisburg with her son Hobart on his return to Bloomsburg Normal.-

OUR farm boys know better than this: A witty sort of a country chap asked a taken this vital way of learning about silly city fellow if he had ever been in different parts of the country at first the country during the season for husking-bees. "Naw!" said the dude. "How do they husk bees anyway?"

Twenty-five cents have come into our hands to pay a subscription, and no name is attached. Stamps were in an old envelope addressed Miss Margaret Boyd, sillitis-all painful and horrible diseases Oxford. Pa. We will be glad to credit that come from carelessness. Let us not the proper person if we find out whom to credit.

Any one desiring to learn patience apply to Mr. Jordan, who once in a while has a balky government mule to handle. ing himself greatly with his work. He "Ring 'round, a rosy, pot full o' posy," is nothing to his walks around, in the atthe Spring. It has been very cold there tempt to deceive the animal into pulling

The tailor shop turned out more work last week than they have before in many months. The work was inspected and their officers thus: President, Lillian found to be well done. This shows good Cornelius; Vice President, Maude Sny- management on the part of the Indian Nannie managers-Henry Rowlodges and Walter Matthews.

The pupils of Number 6 had a guessing shal, Mabel Greely; Reporter, Emma match of famous people they have talked about. 29 faces without names were put upon cards, and these are the names of the pupils who guessed them all-Frank Doxtator, Peter Loren, Mary Stone, Joe Brown, and Harry Seonia.-

The first party is going out to the To-night it is Miss Cutter's and Miss Cornelia Cornelius and Thomas Medicine country to-morrow. All the boys below No. 11 school-room who chose to are to go this time, and the boys from No. 11 and 12 are going out in the second party. The third party will consist of the boys from the two highest rooms.-

> We see by a recent letter from Samuel Sixkiller, class '95, that after a varied experience since he left Carlisle, he is now employed by the Dawes Commission. He says a day scarcely passes that he does not think of the brightest chapter of his life, referring to his student days at

The class room entertainments are come the visiting committee; they always give helpful advice.-

country homes this week, a sociable was given last Saturday night.-

Miss Felicita Medina is teaching Spanish to a few girls. They are teaching her English in return .--

St. spent a few moments in visiting the the rights of citizenship to the New York printing office on Monday.-

Miss Katie Crager of class '02 is enjoying her work as a teacher, at the Fort Lewis Indian School, Colorado.-

which the whole class enjoys most.-

Joseph B. Luna is one of the best workironed several wagons and buggies .-- flock of geese fly over their abode on Sat- number that ever went out, as a first we would not pretend to say she is not Darlington .- [Haskell Institute, Lawurday evening. They were going north.- party.-

The Juniors have a unique way of applauding when they are in their school-As many of the pupils are going to room, so as not to disturb those in the ad- Service by an appropriate sermon, beautijoining room. Instead of clapping their ful flowers, an anthem by the Choir, in hands they snap their fingers.-

Mr. Lester Bishop and Wm. Parker stopped off at Carlisle over last Sunday, the former to see his son Franklin Bishop. Mr. Jack Standing of North Hanover They have been in Washington pleading Indians .-

Mrs E. C. Diament, and cousin Miss S. D. Coddington visited the school, Monday, on their way to Adams County. The Juniors are studying the volcanic Mrs. Diament has been a long time forces. Physical Geography is a study friend of Carlisle and of the Indians in general.

Again.

Palm Sunday was observed at our Chapel which Maud Snyder sung the solo part very sweetly, and a solo, "The Palms", by Mr. Rhey of Carlisle. Many expressions other exercises. of pleasure were heard from both faculty and students on hearing Mr. Rhey's symhim again.

She went botanizing with a company of bud-hunters, but in attempting to squeeze through a fence, she discovered that her calculations were not based on mathematical accuracy and-well-she stuck fast. H. Gardner, who was married to Charles She is not a carpenter or she might have Geboe at Darlington, Okla, writes that Mr. Thompson and his assistants are hammered herself through, nor a tin- she has commenced housekeeping, and ers in the Blacksmith shop. He has busy getting the boys ready for the first smith, or she would have panned out bet- seems very happy in her new work," but party that is to go out to the country to- ter She was not even a blacksmith, al- Charles still insists that it is his brother The small boys were happy to see a morrow. There will be 127, the largest though she grew black in the face, but Clifford who is married and living at some sort of a smith.

quite frequently indulged in, and one of very pleasing variety was enjoyed by a few guests invited to Miss Paull's room Thursday evening A phonograph operated by Raymond Sweet pleased every body, and there were recitations and Acting Superintendent, Mr Allen, gave to the student body in the dining hall a pathetic and artistic interpretation of this talk concerning the little things done by well-known song, and we hope to hear careless individuals. It may be well to note that the habit of throwing papers and other material on the campus goes to make up a big task for others, it also makes untidy grounds .-

> THE RED MAN & HELPER says "Lydia rence, Kansas Leader.

(Continued from first page.)

elephant out for a holiday if he attempted to cast anchor in the usual way.

Therefore he would stay well off the coast and the anxious 800 might view Algiers through telescopes and read their guidebooks.

To add to the aggravation, the Furst Bismarck could be seen snugly berthed inside, and the Celtic's pilot said there was plenty of water.

At last, big flat barges were sent off to bring the voyagers ashore.

There were chairs for the ladies, but the men stood up.

There was an hour's delay in getting the ship's gangways ready, but finally the barges started ashore in a clumsy fashion, the enthusiastic passengers singing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and other patriotic airs.

Every Arab who could leave his bed was on shore to receive them. Baksheesh was scattered with a liberality unheard of, and the Arabs benefited thereby sent up country for their relatives.

Truly these were people worth knowing.

The majority of tourists spent Thursday night ashore. On Friday half a gale of wind was blowing, and still a heavier sea running outside the harbor.

Captain Lindsay was asked to bring the Celtic inside that the passengers might embark, but he refused and moved still further out.

Several daring attempts were made by the anxious passengers to board the ship.

One man was nearly drowned as he tried a flying leap from a tugboat to the ship's ladder, but the tugboat's Captain caught him in time.

Late in the afternoon all hope of embarking was abandoned, and the passengers again raided the town in search of rooms for the night.

The opera and the Casino had audiences of unusual size.

La Belle Fatman gave a special Moorish dance for the amusement of the millionaires.

Saturday morning found the weather clear and bright, but the sea still heavy.

The marooned pilgrims spent the morning around the bazaars, and gazing wistfully at the ship as she tossed at anchoi outside the harbor.

Eventually they got aboard in the afternoon, and the relieved Captain started for Malta.

At the latter place he again refused to enter the harbor, and the indignant passengers, who eventually got ashore in lighters, beseiged the unhappy American Consul and requested him to make an international incident of the matter.

FOR THE RED MAN AND HELPER.] JIM'S OUTING EXPERIENCE.

Jim was a slender bright-eved little fellow of thirteen.

He had never been away from home.

He had never worked very hard. He was one of a family of six children, whose father, a laborer, had a hard struggle to make ends meet.

Jim decided that he would do better for himself, and with his parents' consent, he looked about for something to do.

The owner of a small truck farm out

He was the impersonation of loyalty to A STRONG AND SENSIBLE PAPER BY AN HOW THE INDOLENT PEOPLE OF GUAM BEhis new conditions.

He appropriated the place in a mild way, with a genuine interest in everything in a way that was inspiring to the TO THE EDITOR OF OUR DAY: farm folks.

It was "Our chickens need more feed." 'Our cows have broken field," but Jim had fixed the fence without having been told.

calves fed in good orthodox style, as Jim had been taught, and Jim's word could be relied upon.

He did just what he had been told to do, and saw that what seemed not right should be promptly reported.

When sent to cut brambles in an "out" field, he worked steadily on, and did not kill time, standing around as some boys will.

Jim was fond of fun, and much pleasure did he get about the house out of hours, and both Mr. and Mrs. Jones took great delight in giving him special privileges occasionally because Jim could be trusted to take no advantage.

Jim was trusted at home, and his sharp practical turn made him a trusty help at market. Scrupulously honest and methodic in his business relations; his accounts always came out without suspicious discrepancies.

Jim could sell out sooner than the old farmer

His bright, boyish face and animated manner won people, and they came again. His customers appreciated the little salesman and his goods because he was interested, truthful and business like.

Jim's wages were only four dollars a month- all he was worth when he began, but for three years they steadily increased as he grew in stature and experience.

Best of all, his friends multiplied and Jones' hired boy was a neighborhood favorite.

Every farmer in the district coveted him, but Jim stayed loyal to his first choice.

Mrs. Jones never wearied telling the neighbors what an obliging boy Jim was. He was so tidy in person so little trouble.

His room was always in order. He never made extra work about the ernment under which he lives house as most boys will.

It never was trouble for Jim to lend a hand in the garden or upon the lawn, and many an extra step he saved good Mrs. Jones because he loved to be useful, and his boyish chatter and merry jokes lightened the duties of all.

To joke the old folks by replenishing the wood box or the water pail, or some food and clothing may look well from a other necessary task before they had called for it, was to Jim a huge joke, and he did manage to "jolly" the "Missus" quite a little.

And many were the pleasant surprises "the old folks" gave this sunbeam of sities of life, they have looked to the Govtheir childless home.

Jim did not get spoiled.

His native good sense, and hard experiences of his early life taught him to use well a good opportunity.

beautiful character this unlettered boy was cultivating.

into his young life to stay.

ONEIDA INDIAN GRADUATE OF CARLISLE, CLASS 1889.

The horses were always cared for, the where just and unjust suffer alike. Here for they are so placed that there is no necessity for physical activity and no opportunity for moral improvement Here this condition of the Indians a heartrending appeal for a change from the reservation system of citizenship?

> It may be true that Indians are ignorant and unproductive; but, is it because of their nationality or because of their environment? We must admit that our parents and our environments are the two greatest factors in shaping our destinies. all couples who lived together as man anyone to hold these people responsible neither selected their parents nor their why he required this to be done. environments; and their environments are such as to keep them as they are.

Confining a people where they can have no intercourse with the outside world their original standing, for we know that do one's mind.

The reservation method of caring for with other people, from whom they might learn the arts of civilization, preother people, which expands the mind and stimulates to new efforts for improvement.

It also prevents the children from knowmands of them.

All these things ought to be made familwhether red, white, or black, must sooner or later have a duty to perform which he owes to his Maker as well as to the Gov-

It has caused many of the younger Indians to adopt the pauper habits of their gress provide for establishing in the islparents and to imbibe their nourishment and a permanent civil Government. ready prepared by the sweat of another man's brow.

Supplying these people liberally with charitable standpoint of view, but what has been the result to the Indians?

Instead of making these people ininstead of them trying to meet the necesernment to supply their wants.

It is often asked, "How shall we save these people from ignorance?'

If you, Anglo-saxons will only turn back and read your own history and de-The best thing about it all was the tect the principle that has made you what you are to-day and apply the same to the Indian problem you will find that the re-Habits of painstaking and thrift came sult will be the same as in your case.

To civilize these people, you must break He used his time well, and oh, the fun up this reservation system, give them and pleasure that came in his way with lands in severalty, then throw them on their own resources; recognize them as He found nothing to grumble at, and you recognize other people: adopt compulsory education; and send their children to white schools, instead of putting What Jim had contracted to do up schools for them hundreds of miles

CAME NO LONGER A BURDEN.

The story of how the lamented Capt. Leary of the United States Navy A Reservation is a place where Indians taught the inhabitants of the little isare kept, and is usually as far away from land of Guam how to become self-supportcivilization as possible. Soldiers are ing has in it a good deal of inspiration placed within call so as to be sure that no for workers in any field where so-Indians get out of this bottomless pit, called dependents are trying to gain their feet. Guam is one of the smallest of our is where you see a whole race of people insular possessions and it is located somedecaying morally as well as physically, where between Hawaii and the Philippines.

Its first Governor was Capt Leary.

It is said that his policy for governing is where ignorance has full sway. Is not the few thousand inhabitants found there was characterized by sound practical common-sense, and the Man-on-theband-stand thought as he read the account that some of the methods reminded him of methods tried sometimes upon our Indians on the reservations.

One of his first orders was that establishing the married relation, requiring Hence it would seem unreasonable for and wife to appear before him for the purpose of having the marriage cerefor their present condition, for they have monoy performed, explaining to them

There was universal acquiescence and all were convinced that the 'genial captain sought their welfare.

One of his next orders required every is sufficient cause for retrogression from family to become the owners of a certain number of fowls, pigs and other domestic solitary confinement has the power to un- animals that could be made to contribute food supplies.

He also apportioned a certain amount the Indians prevents them from mingling of Jand to each family, with orders to cultivate it thoroughly.

His object was to make these goodvents them from exchanging ideas with natured but indolent people self-supporting, and encouraged them in every way to raise more than they consumed, selling the surplus to vessels and to the garrison.

After his return to the United States ing what the nation is and what it de- and shortly before his death, Capt. Leary expressed the opinion that the inhabitants of Guam would, under proper direciar to every Indian child, for every child, tions become as happy, prosperous and contented a people as could be found in the world. Evidently the good seed planted by the jovial but wise Capt. Leary is already beginning to bear fruit, says The ration system, too, has been a great an observer, for we notice that the "citidetriment to the welfare of these people. zens of the island of Guam" have sent a petition to Congress, praying that Con-

The people of Guam behave so admirably that the Government at Washington might well strain a point in an effort to encourage them in every way to selfgovernment. In their petition they call themselves "loyal subjects of the United States." The island of Guam is not an dependent, they have become paupers; important one, and may not soon become self-supporting, but in any event, it can never become a burden to the United States.

ENIGMA.

Having enjoyed from week to week the enigmas published in the "RED MAN, AND HELPER," may I take my turn and con. tribute one?-SUBSCRIBER.

I am composed of 10 letters which together are a friendly whisper to the Carlisle outing students.

My 6, 10, 8 is the definite article.

from the village needed a boy.

The two "wants" met, adjusted conditions, and both boy and man were satisfied with the bargain.

The farmer and his wife were impressed with the new boy.

Jim measured the situation and was flatteringly impressed with his new home.

It was a new leaf of experience to the child.

There was plenty of work to do, and Jim took hold with a will.

He could do only light work, but what he lacked in firm muscle and tried strength, he made up in cheerful disposition and an intelligent purpose.

Mistress Jones voted him a "jewel."

Five o'clock was an early hour for a boy who had been accustomed to an irregular hour of rising, but he did it with his morning chores.

all the hard work.

removed the cause for grumbling and nagging,

was rightly done, and farmer Jones away from civilization. trusted him absolutely.

and the farm too small for his energies.

The village school had given him a meager education.

He made room for another boy. He secured a place in a silk mill some miles away.

him foreman— the same jolly painstaking manly fellow.

Everybody liked Jim.

Farmer Jones still calls him " Our Jim," and to him the old farm house will consmiling face, and cheerfully went about tinue to be home whenever he chooses to come.

What can an Indian learn at home that But boy-Jim become a young man, is better than what he can learn in a white community?

must show them something better than what they have at home.

are brought into a realization of the fact Strange to say a few more years found that it is to their advantage to become a part of this great republic of ours, they will cease to be savages.

We have now over sixty thousand Indians who are citizens of this country Why cannot others follow? EDWIN SCHANANDORE, Oneida Indian of Wisconsin

My 5, 3, 4, 9 is what all should be. My 1, 2, 7, 4, 9 is a strip of wood or iron used to strengthen.

My whole adds beauty to any face.

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S ENIGMA: Singing birds.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

If you are to civilize these people you nust show them something better than what they have at home.
I believe that as soon as these people re brought into a realization of the fact hat it is to their advantage to become a vart of this great republic of ours, they vill cease to be savages.
Expirations.—Your subscription expires when the Volume and Number in left end of date line is the Volume and Number in left end of date line is the Volume and Number in parenthesis represent the year or volume. The figures on the left figures make is changed output weak. The Year number or Volume which the two left figures make a year or volume.
Kindly watch these numbers and renew a weak or two ahead so as to insure against loss of coples.

copies. WHEN YOU RENEW please always state that your subscription is a renewal. If you do not get your paper regularly or promptly please notify us. We will supply missing numbers free if requested in time. Address all business correspondence to Miss M. BURGESS, Supt. of Printing Ludian School, Garlisle

Indian School, Carlisle